

Agencies Partner on Emergency Communications

By Patricia Koning

Your cell phone may be your lifeline. However, in a catastrophe it probably won't be of much use. During events such as Hurricane Katrina, 9-11, and the Berkeley Hills Fire, cell phone bandwidth became overloaded almost immediately. The loss of communication between key emergency responders had devastating effects.

The Livermore School District thinks the Livermore Information Network Collaborative, or LINC, can answer this need to ensure such communication is not lost. LINC is a wireless emergency communication system being developed in partnership with the

Livermore/Pleasanton Fire Department, Livermore Police Department, and Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory (LLNL)

Trustee Bill Dunlop, a retired LLNL physicist, first brought up the idea of an interagency wireless communication system last spring. Last year, Dunlop worked with the Naval Postgraduate School on deploying a mobile wireless communications system to aid in Hurricane Katrina relief efforts.

"This would be a redundant system for other types of communication," he explains. "Wi-Fi can be effective in all types of emergencies, including earthquakes.

In addition to providing a robust communication method, LINC will enable first responders to evaluate a situation while en route. Cameras installed at school sites will enable responders to view real-time images of crisis areas, allowing them to direct students and staff out of harm's way.

A live shooter exercise at Sunset Elementary School last May revealed added complications of school sites multiple doors and places to hide. As a result, patrol cars now carry DVDs with blueprints of each school site. LINC would take this a step further, allowing first responders to download up-to-date maps and schematics on the fly.

"This is an incredible opportunity for us to participate in building a local emergency communications system," says Floyd Wilson, Director of Facilities for the Livermore School District. "The benefits include faster response times and reduced security cost.

LINC organizers plan to incorporate area hospitals, transit systems, the Livermore Area Recreation Park District, and the Zone 7 water agency into the system. This coordination would enable first responders to assess capacity and capabilities of emergency rooms and mobilize public transportation. Communication with Zone 7 would be crucial in a contamination event.

Dunlop anticipates LINC encompassing the entire Tri-Valley, including Dublin and Pleasanton schools and agencies, as well as private schools, the charter school, and other entities in Livermore. He notes that Silicon Valley is talking about a Wi-Fi "cloud" for its entire region.

"We do not intend for this to be a closed system," he says. "Once we get the system in place, adding participants is quite simple.

As part of a feasibility study, the District created a wireless network at Granada High School using equipment loaned from LLNL. In December further (See EMERGENCY, page 4)

Plan for Old Lucky Site Described As 'Unique'

A development proposal for the old Lucky site in downtown Livermore drew unanimous support from the city council at its meeting on Monday.

Councilmember Lorraine Dietrich made the motion to approve the plan.

"The city went through a fairly extensive process in talking about what people wanted to see. There was recognition that more efficient land use was going to be necessary. There is ongoing tension between what we have now and where we might want to be. I think this is a very high quality project. The architecture is reflective of what is here. The excitement around the potential for the arts community is absolutely cool.

The proposal drew mixed reviews from audience members.

Pleasanton School Board Prefers Dispersed Growth, Affordable Units

There is no legal requirement to ask for the board's opinion about the update. The council made the request in the spirit of cooperation.

It would generate 198 more students than now planned.

Brozosky Collects Record Number Of Campaign Donations

Pleasanton mayoral candidate Steve Brozosky continued to collect the most in campaign donations during the last reporting period, Oct. 1 to 21, 2006. During that period he received $10,964 in cash and nonmonetary donations bringing his to-tal to date to $63,363.27.

Incumbent Mayor Jennifer Hosterman received $6950 in cash between Oct. 1 and 21. Her total to date is $22,415.

While Brozosky collected more money, Hosterman received funds from more donors during the three week period, 40 for Hosterman compared to 29 for Brozosky.

Brozosky stated in a press release that it is believed his campaign has collected a record number of individual donations for a Pleasanton mayoral campaign.

'It is significant that we've received donations from nearly 300 different individuals and business owners over the past several months. The support is broad-based from school teachers and retired individuals to local CEOs who want a change in leadership," stated Brozosky.

The Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce Business and Community Political Action Committee (BACPAC) collected $5,750 with a total of $26,228. BACPAC

Residents Can Have Park; Softball League a Field

"I fully expect to be able to provide both a replacement softball field and the kind of neighborhood park amenities voiced by many residents," according to Livermore Area Recreation and Park District General Manager Tim Barry

He made that remark in a letter to the editor in response to concerns about future uses of land around the Bothwell Arts Center.

The Livermore Area Recreation and Park District (LARPD), which owns the site, has received over $800,000 in funding to redesign the park surrounding the Bothwell Center. Currently there is a softball diamond, two tennis courts and a small playground.

The LARPD will be discussing the Bothwell Park plans at its November 8 meeting at 7 p.m. at the Robert Livermore Community Center.

Residents living near the Bothwell Arts Center want a more traditional neighborhood park with grass, trees and a tot lot.

Members of the Livermore Girls Softball Association are fearful of losing one of the fields the league uses for its season.

"It will be staff recommendation that LARPD only remove the softball if and when a substitute field has been provided. This issues does not affect this coming season, since LARPD plans to do the park renovation beginning in the spring of 2008, not 2007," according to Barry.

Barry goes on to say that LARPD is discussing options for additional softball fields with the school district and is also exploring current park areas and the acquisition of parkland that would provide additional fields. "We are optimistic that one of theses options will produce a replacement youth softball field, possibly even by the spring 2008 time frame.'

Resident Carrie Buczeke declares, "We do not have a park in our area. There is no park to serve the entire downtown area."

Buczeke said that the neighbors aren't opposed to girls softball. "None of them live down here," she stated. She adds that other areas where there are sports facilities have neighborhood parks. She mentions the area around Max Baer Park, where she says there are 6 neighborhood parks. "We pay a whole lot of taxes and get very little," she declared.

Another resident, Lynn Glover, says that the "rebirth" of Downtown Livermore should include a new neighborhood park

She suggests converting the current 2-acre site around the Bothwell Arts Center to a neighborhood green space with a tot lot, bike paths, picnic tables, an informal field and bocce court. "This is the only available space to provide a park for the increasing residential population living in new, higher density housing and older homes in the down-town area," according to Glover.

The baseball diamond was originally placed at Bothwell Center in 1939. "The complexion and population density of the area is significantly different (See PARK, page 14)

County Planning Panel To Look At Cemetery Proposal

Vineyard Memorial Cemetery on North Livermore Avenue is on the agenda of the Alameda County Planning Commission Nov. 6.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. in the county building at 224 W. Winton Ave., Hayward.

The commission looked at the proposal in July and is scheduled to hear a presentation on the project and a negative declaration for it. The cemetery would be on 40 acres of a 110-acre parcel on the west side of North Livermore Avenue, approximately one mile north of Interstate 580. It would have a mortuary and crematorium and a residence for staff.

There would also be several acres of grapes at the front of the property.

Neighbors have objected that the use amounts to a commercial enterprise. They said that keeping the cemetery green would draw too much wa-

A public hearing on the proposed creation of neyard Memorial Cemetery on North Livermore fect the water level in their wells.

Bob Baltzer, chair of Friends of Livermore, said that the applicant's proposal shows consumption of 125 acre feet annually to water the grassy areas. That's the amount of water that 250 homes use each year. In other terms, approximately 60 acres of vine-yards could be irrigated with that amount of water.

It's not illegal to build a cemetery in an agricultural district, said Baltzer. However, the design has the mortuary outside the 2-acre envelope that Measure D requires for structures, he said.

Baltzer also contended that a third residence on the property as part of the mortuary violates Measure D.

County planning staff official Steve Buckley said that the applicants estimate using 1 acre foot per year. That's the amount of water typically used by two families per year. It will be up to the county department of health services to decide whether to grant permission afor water use, he said.

Three Bids for Lab Contract

Three bids have been submitted to manage the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory.

The deadline was October 27. It appeared there would be only two. However, at the last minute Northrop Grumman officials announced plans to compete for the contract. The bidding team known as National Security Technologies LLC includesNorthrop Grumman, Nuclear Fuel Services, a nuclear materials handling firm; CH2M Hill, an engineering and environmental firm; and AECOM, an infrastructure and environmental conglomerate. Earlier this year, the same team was given a fiveyear management contract for the Nevada Test Site .

Unlike the main competition for the Los Alamos management contract, the Northrop team has no university affiliation.

The other two bidders are a team led by the University of California/Bechtel that includes BWX Technologies Inc., Battelle and Washington Group International. Battelle also man-

Livermore's Most Colorful Family

Two landmarks missing from this year's rodeo celebration were Gardella's Liquors and Club Rodeo, two early businesses at the southeast corner of L and Second Streets on the must list of many Livermore rodeo participants.

Antonio Ĝardella immigrated from Genoa, Italy, to Livermore in 1879. He worked in local vineyards and rented land north of Livermore where he raised hay and grain. In 1880, he sent for his wife Maria and their little daughter.

By November 1905 he had saved enough money to buy farmland from the Ladd estate. In 1908 he had a two-story stucco house built for his family at the northeast corner of First Street and Junction Avenue.

Later, the house was moved a little west of that site on what is now Old First Street. Today, the proud bearing of the house remains, although an add-on in the front has made it the home of little shops and offices. The numerals 1908 can still be seen up near the eaves on the east side, above the decorative iron window balcony. The Gardellas had eight more children.

John "Jack" Gardella was the sixth child, born in 1892. He graduated from Livermore High School in 1909. Musically talented, he played the clarinet and saxophone and organized his own eightpiece band, which was frequently in demand for local celebrations.

After World War I service in the Navy as a chief petty officer in charge of a 22-man band, he took over the operation of Gardella's Liquors. Unfortunately, not long after that, Prohibition became the law in 1919. Jack married Elsie Bonetti and took his band to Oakland, where they played at dime-a-dance joints seven nights a week, trying to make enough money to preserve his empty liquor store.

Meanwhile, the Gardella's youngest child, Frank, was operating the Yosemite Bar next door to Jack's liquor store. When Prohibition came along, the bar was supposedly converted to a soft drink parlor.

However, in a local newspaper interview in 1978, Gabby Garbini, long time patron of Frank's establishment, recalled a 20-foot deep hole under the bar floor with rocks below. If a visit from a federal officer seemed imminent, any whiskey bottles were dropped down the hole and smashed on the rocks, "so that they never had anything for evidence. ... They'd (the Feds) break windows and chop down the door. The next day Frank would call me, and I'd have to go down and hang a new door and fix the windows. It kept the carpenters in work."

Önce Prohibition was over in 1938, Jack again ran the liquor store. He also served on the Alameda County Planning Commission for 25 years, playing a major role in creating zoning laws and the county's first general plan after World War II. According to his obituary in the Oakland Tribune, Jack loved to tell "raucous tales of Livermore's wild and wooly past, of drunken cowboys and drunken horses.'

After Prohibition, Frank had the bar interior redecorated and changed its name from the Yosemite Bar to Club Rodeo. Frank married Isabel D. Nunes. His major interest was in local baseball-he played on, coached, or managed teams from 1919 to 1955. His last position was as manager of the Veterans of Foreign Wars team, which won trophy after trophy. He and Jack became co-owners of the two side-by-side establishments.

The Gardella's eighth child, Louis "Lou" Gardella, graduated from Livermore High and attended the University of Santa Clara, where he played both football and baseball. He served in the Navy during World War I. After returning home, he married Grace Stanley at St. Michael's in 1921.

Lou Gardella owned and operated the Del Valle Mercantile store in the Foresters Building from 1924 to 1956. The store dealt in groceries, hardware, farming implements, housing utensils, and "almost any commodity we could sell."

Lou served on the Livermore city council for 16 years—four terms as a council member and then as mayor from 1950 to 1954, during the time when the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory first came to the city. In an interview by Joan Boer in 1983, he defended his policy of openness to changes in the city by explaining the reason for his long marriage: "He objected to change for the last time when his wife bobbed her long hair in the 1920s. That provoked the only serious spat of their happy 59-year marriage." Livermore flew its flags at half-mast to honor him when news came of his death in June 1984

Amador Band Marches to Sweep-stakes Award: The Amador Valley High School Marching Band and Colorguard won the Class 4A/5A Sweepstakes Award at the Modesto Invitational on Saturday, October 7 held at Johansen High School. The band turned in a strong performance, scoring a season-opening high of 78.90 and earning additional awards in best music, best marching and best general effect.

The Marching Dons field 205 members under the direction of Jon Grantham, Director of Bands at Amador Valley High School. Drum Majors are Devin Maguire, Anthony Sanchez and Allison Gehl. The colorguard is led by captains Kate Dowdy and Taylor Terhune. Their field show is entitled Alcatraz, with original music by John M. Meehan. In four interpretive move-ments - The Yard, Riot, Confinement, and Escape- the musicians and guard evoke the moods and drama of the legendary prison in the bay, complete with a hand-cranked police siren and prison bars. The audience at Modesto cheered enthusiastically for the energetic and highly-detailed performance. The Marching Band and Colorguard posted a new season-high score of 80.00 at Gilroy High School on October 14th in a highly competi-tive Class 5A field. The Marching Dons score earned them a 2nd Place trophy, and placed them just 1.65 points behind sweepstakes winner James Logan High School.

On Friday, October 20, the March-ing Dons will perform the half-time show at the AVHS Homecoming Football game. The band will compete the following weekend - October 28 - at the Los Angeles Coliseum in the 2006 Los Angeles Regional Championship of the Bands of America. Amador Teacher Selected As County's Teacher of the Year

Brian Ladd, a social science teacher in Pleasanton and Charles Reynes, a science teacher in Castro Valley, have been selected as the 2006-2007 Alameda County Teachers of the Year. The pair will represent Alameda County in the statewide teacher of the year competition later this year.

"Brian and Charles are each excellent teachers in their own right," Alameda County Schools Superintendent Sheila Jordan. "They bring energy and creativity to their classroom. They engage students with activities that are not only fun but educational, and they are encouraging a new generation of life-long learners.

The selection of Ladd and Reynes was announced Wednesday (Oct. 25) during the 17th Annual Alameda County Teacher of the Year Awards Ceremony at Chabot College, a celebration honoring 15 teachers from throughout the county who were selected as their school district's Teacher of the Year.

Ladd, a teacher at Amador

Valley High School, has been teaching for 16 years, and currently teaches AP government, AP microeconomics and AP macroeconomics. He also teaches AVID courses, which prepare average-achieving students for col-

"I strongly believe that the noblest of all professions is teaching," Ladd wrote in his application for the Teacher of the Year Award. "There is no better way for a person to take the knowledge that they have accumulated over a lifetime than to share it with future generations. "No one day in the classroom will be like any other day. You, the teacher, have the opportunity to help students discover academic and personal potential that has not yet been tapped."

Tassano Selected

Pleasanton City Manager Nelson Fialho announced the appointment of Mike Tassano as the City of Pleasanton's new Deputy Director of Public Works/Transportation. The appointment, which took effect on October 21, 2006, resulted from an extensive search to identify a replacement for Jeff Knowles, who resigned from the position earlier this year.

Throughout the selection process, Tassano was noted as the top candidate.

Tassano has been employed with the City of Pleasanton since 1998 when he began as an intern in the Traffic Division. Since, he has steadily been promoted through the organization. Tassano earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering from San Jose State University.

In addition to managing the day to day operations of the Traffic Division, Tassano has been responsible for overseeing the City's Neighborhood Traffic Calming Program and facilitating the I-580 Smart Corridor Project. He has also been Pleasanton's representative on a number of Regional Transportation Advisory committees including the Alameda County Transportation Agency, the Congestion Management Agency, and the Tri-Valley Transportation Committee.

Stellar Evolution

Using 3D models run on some of the fastest computers in the world, Lawerence Livermore National Laboratory physicists have created a mathematical code that cracks a mystery surrounding stellar evolution.

For years, physicists have theorized that lowmass stars (about one to two times the size of our sun) produce great amounts of helium 3. When they exhaust the hydrogen in their cores to become red giants, most of their makeup is ejected, substantially enriching the universe in this light isotope of helium. This enrichment conflicts with the Big Bang predictions. Scientists theorized that stars destroy the helium by assuming that nearly all stars were rapidly rotating. However, this theory failed to bring the evolution results into agreement with the Big Bang.

Now, by modeling a red giant with a fully 3D hydrodynamic code, LLNL researchers identified the mechanism of how and where low-mass stars destroy the helium that they produce during evolution. They found that helium burning in a region just outside of the helium core, previously thought to be stable, creates conditions that drive this newly discovered mixing mechanism. Bubbles of material, slightly enriched in hydrogen and substantially depleted in the helium, float to the surface of the star and are replaced by helium-rich material for additional burning. In this way the stars destroy their excess helium, without assuming any additional conditions (like rapid rotation).

'This confirms how elements evolved in the universe and makes it consistent with the Big Bang," said David Dearborn, a Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory physicist. "The previous one-dimensional model did not recognize the instability created by burning ³He."

The same process applies to low-mass metal poor suns.

The research appears in the Oct. 26 edition of Science Express.

Livermore Village is a mixed use development to be built on a five acre plus site. The mix includes 281 residential units, commercial space and artist facilities. The site is divided into four blocks. A linear park would provide a gathering place for residents. There will be public open space, new roads, and paths connecting to other parts of the downtown. The area has been designated a catalyst site in the Downtown Specific Plan.

According to Director of Community Development Marc Roberts, "The site is vital to the revitalization of downtown. It will be one of the most intensely developed sites." Roberts told the council that redevelopment in the downtown is already showing very positive results with increased investment and increased pedestrian activity.

Buildings will be as high as four stories, with a maximum height of 55 feet. A variety of housing types is proposed including flex loft-style units that could be used for live/work or office spaces. In addition there are live/work units with commercial use on the first floor; stacked flats, and standard townhomes.

One of the concerns of the public has been the future of the historic train depot on the site. The land is owned by Livermore Village developers; the structure by another entity. The city is proposing to purchase the building, move it and restore it. A site under consideration is the transit station on Railroad Avenue.

Still to come back to the council for consideration is the owner participation agreement that includes requirements for both the developer and the city. This includes a $9 million infrastructure loan from the city to be repaid by the development within 10 years; $250,000 from the developer towards the purchase and move of the depot; ten percent affordable housing that would focus on artists, a community art center to be offered by the developer to a nonprofit for purchase; rear access to businesses on First Street; and a 330 space parking garage to be built by the city on

Kevin Roberts, Director of Economic Development and Redevelopment, commented, "One of the ingredients that helps to create a successful downtown is providing a built-in customer base. I believe this project will be a tremendous asset to the city, the redevelopment agency and existing businesses,'

Jim Anderson of Anderson Pacific, the developers, described five urban principles used as a road map to create the project. They are the following: creating activity in the downtown core, creating continuous public spaces, referencing historic buildings in designing the architecture, providing a diversity of housing, and fostering arts and culture.

"Courtyards and paseos permeate the site. The linear park will be one of the largest contiguous open spaces in the downtown," said Anderson.

The affordable housing for artists will concentrated in one area. Parking will be concealed, he told the council.

"It has been a tremendous challenge to design the site. Five architectural firms have worked on it. This is not an inexpensive project. It's unique. We are hoping it will draw people to it,' Anderson added.

Asked about the timeline, Anderson said he would like to see it completed in under five years, or less, if possible. "The market isn't so great. We are hoping the location, and style of the project will create interest. There is nothing like it in the Tri-Valley."

Loretta Kaskey, who lives in the downtown area, objected to the height of the buildings. She pointed out that will obstruct the views. "I do believe in infill. I look forward to new shopping and dining opportunities. However, the view of monoliths is similar to development in Dublin." She felt that the new buildings would dwarf existing development, such as Blacksmith Square.

Jeff Kaskey suggested the number of units be reduced to 165. He said that, in reality, the units are 5-stories tall. He asked the council to consider infill that is on a scale appropriate to Livermore.

Kathy Chase called the project, "obscene. It has nothing of Livermore in it; not its heart, history or soul. It has four and five story buildings that look like Dublin. This is too big, too high.' She suggested mixed use with commercial on the bottom and apartments or lofts above.

Also on a negative note, John Stein questioned the proposed agreement, noting that almost all costs are deferred to phase two. Most of the usable space is sidewalks with planter boxes. He suggested that the redevelopment agency did not have the funds to support the project.

Bob Baltzer offered a different perspective. He said at first he didn't like the proposal, but has come to favor it. "It's not Livermore of 1962 when Livermore was a dusty, little cowtown. I don't want to go back to that. Livermore has transformed itself in the last few years. I don't like the height. However, if it makes downtown work, this is what is necessary.

Artist Linda Ryan was totally enthusiastic. "I am so excited by this proposal. It is a really cool thing. It can ignite and enrich people who live here. Livermore can become more than it is," she declared.

Rachael Snedecor, executive director of Livermore Downtown, Inc. was also supportive of the project. She reported to the council that her board expressed an overwhelmingly positive response to a presentation. The big concern was loss of parking and rear access to existing buildings. Those issues have been addressed.

"Housing in the downtown has been an incredible addition to the area," Snedecor stated. "Those living here have become great supporters of the downtown.'

The current parking is on private property. The new garage will be city owned.

Marc Řoberts responded to the desire for a smaller project and cost issue. The development needs some agency assistance. A smaller project would require more assistance than the agency would be able to provide, he stated. The most expensive piece is downtown parking. The agency will build it independent of this project. There is about $8 to $9 million available. Future tax increments will help provide the remaining funds.

Affordable Housing Lawsuit

Urban Habitat and Sandra De Gregorio have hit the City of Pleasanton with a lawsuit challenging city policies that the plaintiffs claim work against affordable housing responsibilities.

Among the policies cited is the Pleasanton housing cap of 29,000 units. "These policies have created a highly restrictive planning environment that has artificially suppressed new housing construction in Pleasanton," stated the plaintiffs in a press release.

We share the plaintiffs' belief that the Pleasanton City Council should zone more land for housing that would be affordable to very-low-income and low-income residents.

However, we support the 29,000-unit housing cap. The cap stands in the way of never-ending growth. It will serve over the coming decades to give Pleasanton control over its destiny and keep the city to a liveable size.

The suit signals that affordable housing advocates are serious. They are not going to let Pleasanton evade its responsibility on this matter. As long as the city continues to evade it, the housing cap and other growth limits will remain vulnerable to action, such as this lawsuit.

Of course, growth limits like these are not really the culprit. One can't help but notice that even in the cities where such controls don't exist, very little affordable housing is actually built. The non-existence of a housing cap simply gives developers license to continue building more of the homes that only the well-to-do can afford.

In our opinion, Pleasanton's affordable housing goals can be met under the growth cap. That means that a large percentage of the remaining units in Pleasanton must be designated for such housing. The Pleasanton City Council simply needs to make a real commitment to do that.

LARPD'S Feral Cats

The Livermore Area Recreation and Park District is developing a policy to deal with the feral cats who make the parks their home.

Among other problems, the cats feed on birds, lizards and other small creatures. The cats could affect the balance of nature in the parks.

A staff draft discussed recently would prohibit the public from feeding the cats (as well as deer, squirrels and other wildlife). This drew criticism from board members, who observed that some people feed the cats as part of efforts to rescue them.

Trapping was also discussed. There was little enthusiasm for that alternative by both board and staff.

Board member Maryalice Faltings - who identified herself as "a cat person" — agreed that it wouldn't be good if a lot of cats lived in the parks. However, she urged staff, "Don't come down too hard on this issue."

These cats aren't like other wildlife. Many of them once had comfortable homes, but were abandoned by their owners. They are more akin to homeless people who've been forced into the streets because of factors beyond their control.

We second Maryalice Faltings' advice. Some control is obviously in order, but let's not starve these poor cats.

Lepley. The three alternatives come within 21 students in the total number of students that they generate for the entire district, a range from 455 to 476.

A silver lining is that much of the growth would occur while the schools would be going into an otherwise contracting time in enrollment, said assistant superintendent Sandra Lepley. The key issue, though, is how those students are distributed geographically.

Board president Steve Pulido said that the widest possible dispersion would have the least impact on total numbers in each school. That is especially important to help preserve the neighborhood atmosphere of the school, he said.

Dispersing growth would also help spread around the impact of affordable housing. "Affordable housing could produce different student generation (numbers). There may be more (students) for us. So dispersing makes sense for that reason," he said.

Another aspect of affordable housing is that there could be "a challenge to a marked degree that comes about by having acute socio-economic differences between schools. There's a need to distribute it around," said superintendent John Casey.

LOWER FEES WOULD IMPACT SCHOOLS

The total amount of affordable housing could also cause concern about the school district's budget, said Pulido. Developers pay the district $2.63 per square foot for affordable housing units. That's the school impact fee ceiling allowed by state law.

However, the district receives much more revenue than that on other units, because of the "gift free" agreement. That's a voluntary pact signed by developers in 2001 with the city and school district. Under the agreement, developers pay $7.75 per square foot. The district's gift fee agreement allows it to go beyond state law and use the funds to buy equipment for schools. So getting close to $5 per square foot less with a significant number of remaining units can have a big impact on that, said Pulido.

The district falls short of that $7.75 fee by close to $3 per square foot from the separate "cooperative fee" agreement that it signed with Signature Properties and Standard Pacific, a pact that was mentioned at the meeting by Lepley. The two developers each pay $5.05 per square foot.

Theoretically the district receives something back for that "discounted" voluntary fee. The promise is that Signature would use its cost-saving abilities as a developer to build the Neal elementary school on Vineyard Avenue. Then the district would pay the developer the estimated $8.5 million cost incurred after it takes over the school.

However, a later cost estimate came in at more than $12 million for Neal. The district says that developer Jim Ghielmetti of Signature promised at a school board meeting to pay the cost difference. Ghielmetti maintains he did not. The issue has been in court for two years.

Another lawsuit could affect the district's budget and school construction, too. Pulido noted that Urban Habitat, an affordable housing group, sued the city two weeks ago. If the group wins, that could greatly increase the city's affordable housing goals, said Pulido.

TARGET FOR CAMPUS ENROLLMENT

As part of the discussion, trustees sent the council a short statement about having targets for school sizes. The size of the schools helps to "maintain neighborhood character, provide facilities for specialized programs, and promotes more personalized education."

The numbers would be 600 for elementary schools, 1000 for middle schools and 2000 for high schools, with an additional 10 percent contingency for each site. Those numbers reflect working board policy for the past few years. However, a key phrase was added that said, "subject to board discretion and financial consideration." The language was suggested by trustee Kris Weaver.

Pulido and trustee Pat Kernan said they didn't want to see a repeat of some past criticism by a previous city council that the district was overstepping the general plan by going past the campus-limit goals that had been spelled out earlier. They emphasized flexibility is needed to have campuses like Walnut Grove with more than 800 students, because that campus accommodates the Discovery Program.

EMPLOYEESGET OVER 5 PERCENT RAISE

The board also approved a 5.73 percent raise for teachers, support staff, and and administrators, as promised if enrollment rose far enough above predictions for the average daily attendance for the district. The raise will cost the district $1 million dollars, with $721,000 of it in salaries, the remainder in benefits.

A controlled burn is planned in Sycamore Grove Park.

The burn will occur after the first rains of the season and the non-native grassland plants have germinated, probably in late November or early December.

The burn is part of the resource management plan approved by the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District board of directors. The burn is expected to help with grassland restoration by getting rid of exotic weeds and to enhance growing conditions for the Sycamore trees.

cur. Following the burn, 400 Sycamore seedlings, grown for the district using seeds collected at the park, will be planted.

The LARPD board heard a description of the plans from consultant Carol Rice during last week's meeting.

Existing roads and the gravel streambed will serve as fire lines, making it unnecessary to create any. Four fire departments will take part in the 40-acre burn: the Livermore Pleasanton Fire Department, the East Bay Regional Park District Fire Department, Alameda County Fire Department, and the California Department of Forestry.

"Existing trees will be protected," explained Rice. They will be sprayed with a foam that is essentially dish soap. Areas will be scraped to remove burn materials. In addition, water would be placed where no burning is desired.

Rice noted that the Livermore Rotary had helped the district with pretreatment around areas that are to be protected. They spent the day scraping around trees and removing large material that could burn.

The actual burn is accomplished by lighting a fire not far from one of the natural features acting as a fire line. The fire would burn to the line. Then another strip would be lit a little further back. It would burn to the already burned area, and so on. The process would be completed in one day.

The district must have approval from the Bay Area Air Quality Management District for the burn.

Both Veterans Park and Sycamore Grove Park will be closed on the day the burn is conducted.

The District will notify the public before the prescribed burn occurs, and will communicate with nearby property owners regarding the details of this project.

The Pleasanton City Council has granted a proposed Foothill Road development higher density in exchange for a 22-acre addition to Alviso Adobe Park.

Charles and Scott Austin, the landowners, will be permitted to build eight homes instead of the six previously allowed. The total size of the property is 30 acres.

The property is rich in history. Meadowlark Dairy was located there. The 150-year-old Alviso Adobe, Pleasanton's oldest building, still stands, and will be the centerpiece of the park. Charles Austin related that when his great grandfather purchased the property 70 years ago, he was aware of the historical significance and took care to preserve the adobe. The family hopes the gift of the 22 acres will add a feeling of spaciousness to the park, Austin said.

Hearings will be held to determine the specific use of the 22 acres. Remarks by neighbors and others indicated that the site is likely to remain as is — "unspoiled," in the word of Christine Ellis, president of the Laguna Oaks Homeowners Association.

"The Austins have done a good thing for the city," said Councilmember Matt Sullivan.

A good thing, indeed. The spaciousness envisioned by the Austins will be wonderfully enhanced. This is a great trade.

Thanks to a newspaper's recent graphic chart, the true facts about Prop. 87 are finally clear. Just as clear are the reasons why Californians should approve Prop. 87.

I hadn't realized that our state, America's third largest oil producer, taxes oil companies at a pitiful fraction of other states' levels.

Texas, the biggest producer, charges oil firms a hefty 4.6%. while second-place Arizona levels a whopping 12.5% to 15%. Even Wyoming, smallest of the Big Seven, gets a healthy 6%.

I couldn't believe that thirdplace California, pumping over 200,000 barrels of oil a year, gets less than a measly 1% in taxes. Obviously we are the only state missing out on an enormous source of badly-needed revenue. Why? Because our legislature, which receives such substantial campaign contributions from this powerful industry, has never mustered the nerve to impose appropriate tax rates on their corporate "friends."

These are the same corporate heavies who have thrown over $100 million into a huge advertising campaign to derail a Prop. 87 victory. We've all been deluged by their slick and expensive propaganda for months now. They can well afford it;

they've been earning phenomenal record profits from us, the gas-buying public. (Top anti-87 contributor Chevron even posted an obscene 150% profit in refining and marketing, from $573 million to $1.44 billion.)

As usual, the good guys try-ing to publicize the truth about Prop. 87 are being overwhelmingly outspent by the big ad agencies. After all, they're a small public-service coalition, not a private-profit mega-power.

But that one factual chart clears away all the PR fog and shows how shamefully low our oil tax has been all these years, and how Prop. 87 would finally give California the oil revenue that every other state already receives

It's obviously long overdue. Vote "yes" on Prop. 87.

His main focus is on local issues not national and international ones. Steve's main goal is to do what is right for Pleasanton and all of its citizens. League and Propositions Mary Beth Acuff, Board Member

Livermore-Amador Valley League of Women Voters

Newspapers give the reasoned, well thought out and informed suggestions of their editors about supporting or rejecting measures presented on the ballot. Let me offer another source of reasoned, well thought out and informed suggestions, those of the League of Women

On the infrastructure measures, 1B through 1E, the League recommends passage. The potholes, chronic housing shortage, crumbling levees and schools and the delicate balance of securing adequate water without damaging the environment have suffered our inattention for too long. Proposition 84 is another dedicated to water quality, flood control and resource protection. Given the enormous extent of the problems facing us, the League recommends passage.

The League strongly supports Proposition 89, the Clean Money and Fair Elections Act. Our current system is inherently unfair and exposes both candidates and office holders to so many special interests, they have little time to do the job we pay them for.

While the League generally does not support constitutionally earmarking a tax, the organization finds that the benefits of Proposition 86, increasing tax on tobacco to fund emergency services, children's health coverage and nursing education outweigh its flaws.

The League recommends that voters reject Proposition 85, requiring a waiting period and parental notification before terminating a minor's pregnancy. The state cannot mandate good parental communication. The potential danger to a young girl reluctant or unable or afraid to tell her parents is too real.

Proposition 88, education funding through a real property parcel tax, violates the League's State and Local Finance positions and is neither fair nor real reform. The League suggests a no vote.

Again, the League recommends rejection of Proposition 90, government acquisition and regulation of private property. While eminent domain laws can be abused, this measure is vague and restricts this necessary tool of government. It would increase the cost to enforce exiting laws that protect the environment and invite crippling litigation in doing so.

On Proposition 83 the League has no relevant policy so it takes no position and on Propositions 1A and 87 the League finds some wording in conflict with its established positions so it remains neutral.

Measure L seeks to extend the "urban limit line to curb sprawl, ease traffic congestion and safeguard open space and farmland." As a local fourth generation rancher, the idea of preserving our way of life is commendable, yet Contra Costa County fails to support the real-life agricultural use they seek to preserve.

Between North Livermore Avenue and Camino Tassajara, thousands of commuters speed past our ranch daily in a free-forall; with scant traffic controls and zero traffic enforcement.

I've seen three fatal accidents in the last 18 months - on Highland Road alone. In the last three weeks over 200 feet of livestock fencing has been destroyed on our property by out-of-control commuters

How can we preserve our way of life if the roads we must use to conduct our ranching operation are dangerously unsafe?

Area residents who wish to truly protect the open space and agricultural use of these lands, beyond just the vote, are welcome to join land owners, residents, bicycle enthusiasts and even commuters in a task force to address this growing problem.

Yes on Prop. 84 Julice Winter League of Women Voters of Livermore, Amador Valley

Proposition 84 on the November ballot is a bond measure that will help protect California's drinking water, natural landscapes, coast and ocean. These vital natural resources are essential to our health, our economy and our quality of life.

Every region of the state will benefit from this measure, and there will be local control over specific projects to improve local water supply and quality. Proposition 84 will also provide for safe neighborhood parks, conserve forests and wildlife, and protect the rivers and lakes in to the Supreme Court decision), Prop. 90 will thwart any attempt to protect farmland or open space from development. Indeed, it may end zoning altogether. Any action by any level of government that any property owner thinks may adversely affect the value of his land can lead to a claim for damages. Governments in Oregon already face over five billion dollars in claims that must be paid or settled in court.

We all know who pays when a school district, a city, a county, or the state has to pay claims. Don't let yourself be taxed because of a deceitful initiative. Vote "no" on Proposition 90.

Haven Food Pantry Sally Leonard Livermore

I recently received and responded to a letter requesting a donation to the Tri-Valley Haven. While I have always supported the Haven and its contribution to the community, I am distressed that the work on the Haven Food Pantry is not featured more prominently in your solicitations. I realize the food pantry is a component of homeless services. However, I think the public should know just how significant the pantry is to the lives of so many families in the Valley.

The Haven Food Pantry is one of the most successful and publicly visible aspects of the Haven's services. I would like to see it and its coordinator, Clare Gomes, get the attention they deserve. The pantry could have at least been mentioned in the solicitation letter.

I am a lifetime resident of Alameda County and ask you to join me in voting for Jill Buck for Assembly on November 7th, a candidate that will make a real difference. tices of Pombo and our administration which have made most Americans poorer, sorer and more divided than ever. We need to replace Pombo and his kind with people like Jerry McNerney, a uniter and independent thinker who will look beyond the next election, party line, special interests and Big Money.

For those who feel we can effect change through fighting this never-ending holy war please put yourselves in the line of fire. The rest of us need to find a way to peacefully coexist with the entire world. We must honor other cultures and live in harmony with our environment. What makes the Bushies think they can change thousands of years of beliefs and traditions with our weapons of mass destruction?

Stop allowing Big Money to buy our elections and run our country. Vote for McNerney.

Arkin and Brozosky Julie Testa Pleasanton

I am adding my endorsement to the long list of community and regional leaders supporting Steve Brozosky for mayor. Steve has earned the trust of the vast majority of the Tri-Valley community and Pleasanton elected leaders during his four years as our City Councilman.

City Councilwoman Cindy McGovern, nearly all past and current Pleasanton school trustees, Livermore Mayor Kamena, San Ramon Mayor Wilson, Danville Mayor Stepper, and Alameda County Supervisor Haggerty have made it clear, through their endorsements of Steve, that he is the mayoral candidate they can trust to best represent Pleasanton and the Tri-Valley on regional issues like traffic congestion and public safety. These are our local elected leaders - women and men - Democrat and Republican.

It is unheard of for the challenger to receive the sweep of local elected official endorsements. It speaks volumes as to our current mayor's performance along with her interaction with the PUSD and our neighbors in the Tri-Valley over the past two years. I recently heard a Tri-Valley mayor say, "Pleasanton has lost their voice in regional decision making because it has not been well represented or respected at the table in the past two years."

I have worked with Steve on many community issues. He is hard working and dependable. He doesn't talk about problems, he gets things done. Whether it's adding Wheels bus lines for school transportation, the Donlon sports fields or the BMX Park, Steve has delivered for the community.

Please vote Brozosky for mayor, and Brian Arkin for city council. They have earned your vote.

since 1982 and we have 2 daughters, Robin in college at U.C. Santa Barbara and Richelle, a freshman at Amador Valley High School.

Steve is passionate about his service to the community. He has volunteered in 4-H, Vintage Hills Elementary School, Pleasanton Middle School, Amador Valley High School, Pleasanton Senior Center and as soccer coach. While serving on the Pleasanton Youth Master Plan Committee he designed our youths' Ptown411.com website. Our family is always out there helping our community in different organizations. Our kids have both participated in the leadership program at Amador High School.

We belong to the Filipino Americans of Pleasanton and the Pleasanton/ Tulancingo Sister City Association. Steve embraces the diversity of our community.

The endorsements of the mayors of Livermore, San Ramon and Danville show that Steve can be a great addition to the leaders of the Tri-Valley. Four current Pleasanton School board members (Steve Pulido, Juanita Haugen, Kris Weaver & Pat Kernan) also believe in what Steve can deliver and contribute to our kids.

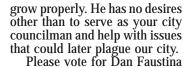

Steve's running for mayor is a family decision. Steve's focus is Pleasanton and not national or global issues. He has no aspiration for any other higher political office. Our family is behind him all the way in his effort to get Pleasanton back on the right track.

Support Faustina Garrett Marshall Pleasanton

As a junior at Foothill High School, I may not be able to vote this year, but Dan Faustina still has my support for City Council. I ask you to vote for him and support what he's trying to do for Pleasanton. You will not find a more committed candidate.

Wouldn't you agree that the youth is the future of Pleasanton? Dan brings his dedication to our level and coaches us in awesome ways. He explains that the traffic problems are potentially our problem if not resolved now. If our foothills are not preserved, over-crowding is eminent, something none of us want. Our senior citizens would not be able to live here, if there is not appropriate housing for them. Our downtown would lose its appeal if not preserved. These potential problems could be ours. I support Dan because I believe in what he stands for.

There is only one candidate who wants to see Pleasanton on November 7.

It's About Pleasanton Rick Price Pleasanton

Representation without authorization: Sadly, this is a major issue which faces every voter in this years mayoral election in Pleasanton. Are you aware that Jennifer Hosterman is using her title as mayor to represent you, and all of Pleasanton, on controversial national issues in newspaper ads and rallies? Specifically, she is expressing her strident anti-war views as the opinion of our town. As an example, Mayor Hosterman spoke along with Cindy Sheehan at an ani-war rally as recently as June 2006 in Vancouver . She's reported to have said "the responsibility of mayors around the world is to take action on national and international issues.'

When did Pleasanton have a referendum on having a mayor speak for us on national issues? Was it part of her campaign when she ran for mayor? To my knowledge neither of these items has taken place. Yet, Mayor Hosterman insists that it is her right to use the title of "Mayor of Pleasanton" to promote her personal agenda on national issues. This is representation without authorization! If she wants to attend rallies and place ads as a private citizen, more power to her. But, if she wants to represent the town as endorsing her private views by using her title as mayor in these events, then she is running for the wrong office.

That's why I will join Alameda County Supervisor Scott Haggerty and many others to vote for Steve Brozosky. He understands, "it's all about Pleasanton."

Re-electThorne John O'Neill Pleasanton

Jerry Thorne is the ideal candidate for the Pleasanton City Council. As a member of the Council, he is an effective, responsible and decisive thinker. His vast public service record in Pleasanton qualifies him to be reelected. In addition, his strong and experienced voice has helped bring more consensus and cooperation to the City Council.

Please join me in voting for Jerry Thorne for Pleasanton City Council on November 7.

Support Arkin Debi and Jim Frost Pleasanton

I am writing in support of Brian Arkin for Pleasanton city council. I am very impressed in him and what he stands for. It is my belief that Brian is the candidate most suited for the job.

Brian is a successful business man. He has been active in city government for years, six of those years as a planning commissioner. He has a family with children attending all levels of the Pleasanton public school system. This makes him the perfect candidate to address Pleasanton's needs today!

He understands how important commerce is to the city, yet he has the ability and skills to balance that with what is best for Pleasanton, not developer special interests.

Having children in all three levels (elementary, middle and high school) of education gives him a well rounded view of our public schools and what they need in order to maintain their high level of excellence. His children are involved in sports so Brian understands the value that parks and other recreation facilities bring to Pleasanton.

Brian is committed to making Pleasanton a better place to live

No On Prop. 90 Tom Reitter Livermore

Wealthy New York developer Howard Rich is cynically misusing California's initiative process for his personal ideological agenda. After using his money to get it onto our ballot, he hopes Prop. 90 can wreak havoc on California as a similar measure has done in Oregon since 2004.

Under the misleading guise of "reforming" California's eminent domain law (which is not the same as the Connecticut law that led

They keep us busy fighting amongst ourselves over these distractions while they steer the ship of state to their advantage. It's the corruption, policies and prac-

DCCC Adds More Support For McNerney

As the fall political campaigning comes down to the wire, the most hotly contested partisan political race in the Valley continues to heat up.

Democrat Jerry McNerney, running to unseat Republican Rep. Richard Pombo in the 11th Congressional District, has been added to the Red to Blue program's list, run by the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee (DCCC).

McNerney's campaign was recognized for generating grassroots interest and exceeding fundraising expectations, said a press release from his campaign. The new focus will provide the campaign more financial, communication and strategic support, it said.

McNerney credited his supporters for attracting the DCCC's increased attention. He said that "every day, my campaign welcomes new volunteers."

The McNerney campaign also said that more contributions came to their candidate in the first 18 days of October than the Pombo campaign received. McNerney collected more than $416,000, boosting his election cycle total to nearly $1.6 million. The release said that Pombo raised about $350,000. Pombo's total, according to his campaign, is more than $3.5 million since the beginning of the year.

McNerney also received an endorsement from Nadia McCaffrey of Tracy, who has been mentioned prominently in news media recently. She lost her son, Patrick, in the Iraq war. The endorsement was annouced during a ceremony Oct. 30 at the Pleasanton Veterans Plaza.

Pombo picked up endorsements from The Tri-Valley Herald, the Contra Costa Times, and the Stockton Record.

McNerney added the Pleasanton Weekly to his endorsement list.

Brozosky for Mayor Laura Danielson Pleasanton

I have known and worked with Steve Brozosky for nine years. I first met him at Vintage Hills Elementary where he managed to create a much-needed computer lab from used computers and empty space. I also served with him on the Pleasanton Youth Master Plan Implementation Committee, where he helped to create PTown 411, our city's youth information websiteagain as a volunteer. He has served this community well.

I have also seen Steve, as a council member save this city a great deal of money. Remember the illuminated city center signs proposed a few years ago? Steve's investigation and com-ments saved $92,000! Another vivid example was Steve's challenge to Wheels Bus execs to explain their request for a double digit raise on the same planned agenda where they claimed they lacked funds to support additional high school bus service. Wheels managed to see reason and hundreds of cars were taken off our roads.

Call that "nitpicking?" I call it good fiscal and environmental policy.

Also, complaining that Steve's customer interaction software is somehow a detriment to this city seems ludicrous. Is a program (or the smart person who develops it) that improves customer service in city government a bad thing? I think not. In fact, Steve's company donated software to the Livermore Airport so noise complaints, many of them from Pleasanton residents, can be tracked and properly addressed.

You can do the right thing too, Vote for Brozosky for Pleasanton Mayor on November 7th.

Vote for Coleman Ellen Schaefer

Livermore

My husband and I proudly displayed a large "Terry Coleman for State Assembly" sign on prop-erty we own in Livermore. Unfortunately, the sign was torn down, and we understand that a great many other Terry Coleman signs have been vandalized throughout the 15th Assembly District, no doubt by Guy Houston supporters.

The extremists in office are so desperate to hang onto power that they break laws to do so. They might be able to tear down a sign; they will not be able to tear down Terry Coleman's growing support. Like the Livermore Independent that endorsed Mr. Coleman, we believe he will give our district "a more responsive and wiser level of representation." Please vote for Terry Coleman

Taxpayers'Trap Thomas Jefferson Livermore

Your most important vote in November is a vote against Proposition 90.

Proposition 90 has rightly been called a taxpayers' trap, not just because of its draconian changes to eminent domain regulations, but because of its even more devastating provisions that would require compensation if any future government action significantly "damages" (lowers value of) private property. Health/safety actions are exempted.

Private property means any property, including, for example, a business, intellectual property, or real estate.

Prop 90 is a lawyer's dream because of the thousands upon thousands of lawsuits demanding compensation that will arise against all levels of governments in California.

A gravel company applies for a new (noisy, dusty) pit near a residential neighborhood. The application is denied; the company sues for the millions it would have made. The application is approved; nearby residents sue.

Any future environmental or consumer protection measures will give rise to lawsuits for compensation. For example, further restricting those junk telemarketer calls would bring junk lawsuits from the forth telemarketers.

The opportunities for such prop 90 lawsuits are endless, limonly by the lawyers' imagi nations. Amazingly, even if the government prevails in such lawsuits, proposition 90 expressly prohibits the government from recovering attorney fees or costs from a property owner who sues. No matter which side prevails, our governments and you pay. Naturally, proposition 90 has no provision requiring property owners to compensate the gov-ernment for government actions (new roads, parks, etc.) that increase property values.

the General Plan revisions, and spearheading affordable housing, traffic mitigation and a future transit village in Hacienda Business Park.

To this on-the-job training can be added hundreds of additional hours Brian spent meeting with Pleasanton residents in campaigns to referend unpopular housing projects (Pumpkin Patch, Merritt/DeSilva) and preserve the Bernal Park lands from housing (Measure V, which Brian co-authored). Other council candidates are seeking your vote without having served on any City commissions, promising they will do their best, but needing their own years of on-the-job training to be ready to deliver. Experience counts.

Trap-Neuter-Release Kimberley Hagen Livermore

I read with interest the article regarding the feral cat situation being addressed by the LARPD. The staff seems to be overlooking what has long been consid-ered the most effective way to deal with feral cat colonies, which is the trap-neuter-release method. To quote quote www.feralcat.com, "Studies have shown that trap-neuter-release is the single most successful method of stabilizing and maintaining healthy feral cat colonies with the least possible cost to local governments and residents, while providing the best life for the animals themselves.'

If there are people who are already trapping the cats in our local parks, I would imagine local veterinarians would be willing to step up and donate free (or severely discounted) spay/neuter services. There may already be a local animal service group that has a program in place. I truly hope the LARPD looks into all of their options, besides reprimanding well-meaning citizens or turning trapped cats over to an already overburdened and under-funded humane society or county run animal control.

Runyon for School Board Kathy Coyle Livermore

These are better times for the Livermore School District. Five years ago the District was faced with a severe budget crisis and for three consecutive years the school budget was whittled away with painful, difficult cuts. Most of us who lived through these times are well aware that, if not for the Livermore Valley Education Foundation, under the leadership of Kate Runyon, things would have been much worse. Kate led a team of volunteers, spending countless hours and days, tenaciously and relentlessly pursuing financial contributions to offset the losses to the district budget. Every time I see a "Dollar-a-Day" license plate holder, I think of Kate. The results of these efforts, more than $1 million, kept class size reduction intact in Kindergarten through 3rd Grade, saved music and science programs and kept school libraries open. I was Chairperson of the Budget Advisory Committee during those vears. I know we were spared some very tough decisions because of the efforts of Kate and her team. Kate Runyon has demonstrated a commitment to this community that is truly amazing. She is honest, direct and articulate, which are qualities that we need in our elected leaders. She will be an outstanding School Board member. I can't think of anybody better for this job than Kate.

ter informed, willing to see both sides of any issue and ready to effect resolution than Jerry Thorne.

With the issues facing Pleasanton today and in the future, I am confident a vote to re-elect Councilmember Jerry Thorne is a positive vote for Pleasanton. It's rare that we have a candidate that has such a diverse range of support, which is clearly indicative of his ability to serve the City of Pleasanton, fully and completely. Your vote for Jerry Thorne is a vote for the Pleasanton we all love.

Vote to Re-Elect Jerry Thorne to the Pleasanton City Council this November.

Democrat for Buck Antonia Hume Pleasanton Mom-Resident

As a long time Democrat I was very disappointed how easily The Independent, which circulates throughout Pleasanton, Dublin, Sunol, and Livermore, has just endorsed Mary Hayashi for the 18th Assembly race (Thursday 19th edition). The Independent has given their support to a candidate who has barely lived in this district for a full year and hardly knows what the Tri-Valley area looks like; let alone understands the issues facing our community and fellow neighbors.

As a long-time resident of the Tri-Valley, mother of two daughters and a Democrat, I wholeheartedly support Jill Buck as the candidate to vote for as our 18th District Assembly Representative. Our community supports Jill and there are many like her who really care about our area, whether they or Democrat or Republican. I am stressing to you and your readers that we do not support people who move to our community for the sole purpose of using our district to excel politically and gain power. Like so many of us, Jill Buck has been there for the Tri-Valley and to completely ignore that fact when considering an endorsement is appalling.

Vote for the "right" candidate instead of voting for a particular party ticket. Consider your children, our community and the future. Jill Buck is the "right" candidate and this long time Democrat will be voting for Jill Buck on November 7th

As I See It Roanne Hobizal Pleasanton

As I see it, Pleasanton will find herself at a crossroad on Election Day this November.. If we chose to stay with the status quo, electing a city council that talks rather than does, we will find ourselves with many problems and few solutions. I say it is time to elect a leader that will make things happen. I say it is time to elect Dan or city cound under "case studies" in promoting his business to cities for his own personal gain. Check his websites.

It certainly is cause for all of us to be concerned about his ethics, motives and methodology. Brozosky should resign.

Brozosky has supported Richard Pombo (number 13 of the most corrupt congressmen remaining out of prison) and Pombo has supported Brozosky. If you are in the 11th district, you must have seen Karl Rove's NRCC mailers attacking Pombo's challenger, Jerry McNerney. This is Pleasanton, Pombo's corruption and Karl Rove's lies should "never: be allowed to infiltrate and corrupt our mayor's office.

On the other hand, Mayor Hosterman is one of the most ethical and enlightened political figures that I know of. She deserves your respect and your vote for a second term.

Vote for Cook-Kallio Dave Howell Pleasanton

Fellow Pleasanton Residents: I have known Cheryl Cook-Kallio for over 20 years, during the last seven of which we have worked at the same Fremont high school. Speaking as her colleague and as a 15-year Pleasanton resident myself, I wholeheartedly support her City Council candidacy Cheryl has lived in Pleasanton for 20 years. Her children went to school in Pleasanton. She has taught American history and American government classes for 29 years. She helped to coach Amador Valley High's "We the People" civics team. She is passionate in her belief in and her support of a free and productive society.

I believe that Cheryl will take the positive qualities developed during her life as a classroom teacher into Pleasanton's City Council chambers. I believe that she will research issues thoroughly and fairly, that she will use her considerable critical thinking abilities to problem solve, and that she will work hard to reach a consensus that will allow the city to continue its forward momentum.

I believe that she will bring a much-needed breath of fresh air into city government. I urge you to support her.

Ballot Measures Dale Kaye, President and CEO

Livermore Chamber of Commerce After careful consideration of how November ballot propositions will impact business and the community in general, the Livermore Chamber of Commerce has made the following recommendation: • Proposition 1A – Transportation Funding Protection, Leg-islative Constitutional Amendment - Support 1. Closes the loophole in voter-approved Proposition 42. 2. Ensures gas taxes already being paid are spent only on transportation projects benefit-ing California's 20 million drivers.

ments for disabled Californians. 2. Creates 87,000 jobs and helps improve the state's economy.

3. Contains funds to enable households to become or remain homeowners.

4. Contains strict accountability provisions and no new taxes.

• Proposition 1D – Kindergarten-University Public Education Facilities Bond Act of 2006 Support

1. Modernizing and repairing school infrastructure will help ensure delivery of quality education.

2. Invests in construction of approximately 6,500 new K-12 classrooms and 3,000 community college classrooms. Repairs 31,000 classrooms.

3. Builds and modernizes science and engineering labs and classrooms.

4. Builds on administration and legislative commitment to career technical education with funding for 3,000 vocational education facilities.

5. Contains strict accountability provisions and uses existing taxes on a long-term plan to rebuild California.

• Proposition 1E – Disaster Preparedness and Flood Prevention Bond Act of 2006 - Support

1. Expedites urgent repairs and essential improvements to levees and flood control facilities

2. Increases flood protection for urban areas.

3. Expedites evaluation and repair of the current flood control system.

4. Provides funds to protect drinking water by rebuilding and safeguarding out-of-date pollution-prevention systems.

5. Contains strict accountability provisions and uses taxes already being paid to make important infrastructure improvements that can limit the impact of disasters when they do hit as part of a long-term plan to rebuild California.

 Proposition 90 – Government Acquisition, Regulation of Private Property, Initiative Constitutional Amendment - Oppose. We oppose this measure for the following reasons: 1. Increases taxpayer costs by allowing anyone to sue, claiming a new law or regulation has affected the value of the property or business, thereby encouraging frivolous and time-consuming lawsuits that will tie up needed land-use planning in litigation delays.

2. Increases the cost of public infrastructure projects, such as schools, traffic relief and flood control.

3. Threatens affordability/reliability of state energy supplies by making it more difficult for utilities to site and add increased transmission capabilities.

the tops of the ravines were beginning to turn brown and fall over. It was springtime. Creatures were building their nests and raising families in and under the trees. Soon all the oaks were lying grotesquely in tall, dusty piles of trunks and branches. I began to see giant, yellow earthmovers lined up on the ridge tops. They were resculpting the bare, high hills. Newly scraped dirt roads curled around the hills and tumbled through the empty ravines. New houses and an extended Dublin Boulevard were planned for these hills, I was told.

Whoever thought that new houses and roads in west Dublin could in any way enhance the natural pools, ravines holding live oaks and small creatures, and the elegant, high land that cradled them?

Donlon Point now indicates where one can see a new low in city planning.

There once was a city named Dublin,/ Whose penchant for building was troublin'. We'll carve up the hills,' Native oaks give no thrills,' Keep hundreds of earthmovers rumblin'.

Supporting Pombo G. Roger Gathers Pleasanton

Having Richard Pombo as their representative must really give the local Democrats a pain. It seems they will do or say almost anything, no matter how ridiculous to get rid of him. First, in the primary, we had Pete McCloskey, who is really a closet Democrat running against Pombo using phony charges of corruption. He used the scam of pretending to live in the district by staying with a farmer in the Central Valley. Almost all of his campaign money came from outside the district. His literature called him a congressman when he is really a former congressman, who was given the gate.

When the ploy failed, he cast off the disguise and supported McNerney. The McNerney campaign has offered nothing positive. It's a campaign of smear tac-tics using the big lie machine. It worked for Ellen Tauscher and they hope it will work for McNerney. They accused Pombo of taking an expensive vacation in an RV with his family at taxpayer expense. The truth is that he saved the taxpayers a lot of money by using the RV instead of planes for business travel and he paid for his family's expenses out of his own pocket. It allowed him to avoid being an absentee parent.

The Democrats have only one solution for every problem: tax people out of their skulls and use the money to buy votes. I have personally monitored Pombo's votes in the Congress using the internet. I like what I see. He will 4. Undermines the authority definitely get my vote.

Vote "no" on proposition 90, truly a taxpayers' trap.

Arkin Experienced Chris Schlies Pleasanton

Pleasanton voters have the opportunity to elect a new councilmember who will bring years of experience to the job. Brian Arkin has served on the Planning Commission since 1999. As a commissioner, Brian has heard hundreds of hours of public testimony from city staff, residents, developers and consultants about land use and traffic issues. Brian has read thousands of pages of reports and proposals over hundreds of additional hours. Brian has made countless project site visits and talked with neighbors and project proponents alike. Brian has weighed the information and been decisive on hundreds of issues when voting on matters before the Planning Commission.

No other City Council candidate has this type of experience, which includes the approval of 200+ senior housing units, guiding the planning process by which Pleasanton received the land for Bernal Park, advocating green building and energy efficiency requirements, debating

Vote for Thorne Jerry Pentin Pleasanton

Pleasanton has four candidates running for seats on the Pleasanton City Council. Only one of these four candidates really understands the scope of work, the responsibility involved and the impact on our community that our council has because he's already on the Council. This candidate is Incumbent City Council Member Jerry Thorne. I had the pleasure of sitting next to Jerry on the Pleasanton Parks and Recreation Commission for over two years (of the ten years he served on the Park & Rec Commission) and had the opporobserve tunity to Councilmember Thorne up-close and personal.

With all due respect to my fellow commissioners, no one came to a meeting more prepared, bet-the city he was born, raised and educated in, the city he lives, works and worships in. Dan Faustina appreciates the future of Pleasanton because he has seen its past. As a proven leader at the local and county level, he has an understanding and vision for our housing and traffic issues, the needs of our seniors and youth, and the importance of preserving the beautiful landscape that surrounds us.

Please get to know Dan. His energy and enthusiasm is contagious. His sincerity is refreshing. I encourage you to visit Dan's website at www.danfaustina.com, call or email him and see for yourself just how qualified and capable Dan is.

Please remember to vote. Please Vote for Dan Faustina for City Council.

Conflict of Interest Charles Clark Pleasanton

Pleasanton City Councilman and candidate for mayor Steve Brozosky has criticized Mayor Hosterman for using her title to speak about global issues such as solutions for global warming. New Low in Planning Tania Seldon Livermore

For forty years, I enjoyed seeing Dublin's handsome landform called Donlon Point from a distance as I drove highway 580 west. It slopes south to the lowest point in the western hills. As I drove through the pass, I'd count the ravines, about seven in all, full of verdant California live oaks. Which animals lived in the trees and burrowed in the soil underneath? Were there vernal pools hidden in the waves of green hills beyond my view? Early this year I saw what I thought was the beginning of Sudden Oak Death; the trees at

Pelosi Fan Donald King Livermore

As a lifelong Democrat, I am elated at the prospects of my party gaining the 15 seats in the House of Representatives to put us back into power. And I am especially elated to realize that Nancy Pelosi, current leader of the House Democrats, will be chosen for the very important position of Speaker of the House. She will be the first woman to hold that post.

I have become a real fan of Nancy Pelosi. A knowledgeable Washington commentator described her as "elegant and pol-ished." I would certainly agree. She was also described as an expert on policy. Watching her on TV, I see her as sharp as a whip, articulate to a fine point, and steely in her willingness to call a spade a spade. She seems to have no end of physical energy. And, she has achieved the reputation as having done an excellent job as disciplinarian for the House Democrats.

I have, in the past, criticized her for her pro-choice stance on the abortion issue, but the abortion rights people captured the Democratic Party some years ago. To its detriment, the issue has come to be regarded as a "core value." Pelosi has steered clear of becoming embroiled in the argument. I do believe that she sincerely believes, as I do, a fellow Catholic, that there are instances when it should be left up to the woman, whether to abort or not. Rape, and a diseased or deformed fetus come to mind. I am proud of her as a conscientious Catholic mother of five.

Vote for Arkin Carl W. Pretzel Pleasanton

The one clear candidate for preserving Pleasanton's wonderful life-style is Brian Arkin. I have watched his career these many years on the Planning Commission and his conception and implementation of Measure V to stop turning the City's Bernal Land into a developer's give away. Brian has consistently voted and championed efforts to protect the living standards of Pleasanton.

Beware of candidates who are wolves in teacher's clothing. This has been attempted before with disastrous results for the city. Platitudes like "doing what good for all of Pleasanton" should be interpreted as, "I will decimate neighborhoods and ignore residents rights." Extending Stoneridge Drive will be just the open-ing move to open up all of North Pleasanton to cut through traffic from I 580. Brian understands that I-580 traffic must stay on I-580 Don't be fooled by the rhetoric of others. Vote for Brian Arkin for Pleasanton City Council.

Support Brozosky Barbara Langworthy San Jose

The people of Pleasanton have an opportunity to elect a uniquely effective leader as Mayor – Steve Brozosky. I've known Steve since 1981 when we worked together at a computer company where he was the young "wunderkind" - the software engineer who everyone relied on to solve the toughest problems. The qualities that drove Steve to passionately work on a problem, through the night if necessary, still characterize his approach to everything: precisely define the problem, work hard, be creative, don't stop until the problem is solved, and give generously of yourself. I can honestly say that I haven't known anyone who combines Steve's re-happy to re-elect Mr. Brozosky to the City Council. His past political philosophy has been close to Mrs. Hosterman. His candidacy against her smacks of hair-splitting and nitpicking. How can he back up his claim of uniting the City Council when he has the endorsement of only one of the 3 other council members? More disturbing is his advertisement touting the endorsements of 15 past presidents of the Chamber of Commerce. These people opposed Measure V that swept Mr. Brozosky into office in the first place! Apparently Mr. Brozosky's ambition takes priority over his past principles.

I am confident Mrs. Hosterman will not be so easily "turned." Do not listen to what people say she will do. Look at what she has done in her past term. It is about Pleasanton. Mrs. Hosterman deserves to be rewarded for doing a good job for Pleasanton. Vote to re-elect Jennifer Hosterman for mayor.

Re-elect Jerry Thorne Dave and Roz Wright Pleasanton

Having volunteered much in the Pleasanton Community for many years, we have come to appreciate Jerry Thorne because he knows how to get things done. We have watched him at Council Meetings say that the concerned sides have been heard, so let's move forward.

We have watched Jerry Thorne work quietly behind the scenes to get diverse interest groups to speak with one another and watched him assist them in achieving consensus. Jerry Thorne, as a concerned community member, helped bring about consensus through emails, phone calls, and meetings— when the discussion of uses for the Bernal Property were under consideration.

He is a thoughtful, mannered man who seeks viewpoint exchanges and consensus. We call him civilized in the best sense of the word—civil, weighing thoughtfully those viewpoints which have been thoroughly presented and are based in fact, and decisive in moving to action.

Jerry Thorne, "thank you" for vour level-headed approachand for being fiscally wise, supporting a vitally enriched Pleasanton community and a high quality of life in Pleasanton. We are fortunate to have your steady vision and your desire to see the job done.

After the Election Juanita Knicker Pleasanton

Wow! An assemblyman seeking re-election is accused of defrauding elderly investors out of millions, but wants a gag order keeping his deposition testisecret until after the elec mony tion? Here's a quid pro quo: I will vote against Guy Houston, but I won't tell anyone I did so until after the election.

Thorne - Right for Pleasanton Dick Quigley Pleasanton

Jerry Thorne has my vote, and I hope you review his outstanding service record, with the Park and Recreation Commission and City Council. He studies issues, asks great questions and displays a passion for making our com-munity a better place to live. He has the knowledge, experience, professionalism, character, and deep dedication that we need for Pleasanton's leadership now and for the future. Please join me in voting for Jerry Thorne for Pleasanton City Council.

Dirty Politics in Pleasanton Marjorie Muentz Pleasanton

Dan Carl, Brozosky's campaign treasurer, goes through 2 years of Jennifer Hosterman's emails looking for dirt. Brozosky's supporters have publicly smeared her with unsupported accusations and hate mail for months. Jennifer is a popular and successful mayor. She has balanced the needs of the neighborhoods with those of business. She listens respectfully and kindly, and yet they fault her for responding in an e-mail, not for public consumption, to the dirty campaign tactics being used against her. She was ahead of her time regarding the peace initiatives and concern for saving the environment. Her critics accused her of neglecting her job to have opinions about the peace and the environment. Most people I know can have strong opinions and still perform their jobs well.

Steve Brozosky has said that he has just started a new company selling software to government entities. Is this not a conflict of interest? How convenient in performing his duties to be able to promote his product. He also has $50,000 in donations when historically, campaigns cost closer to $10,000. Whose interests does he represent? What will he spend that on? His publicly supports campaign reform which is an issue I feel strongly about it, and yet he proves that in the future anyone who wants to run for local office will have to seek corporate donors more than convince constituents.

Brian Arkin is the only candidate taking a strong stand about campaign finance reform by rejecting corporate donations. He also is a strong defender of neighborhood interests and has served years on the Planning Commission and knows the issues well. He has not been bought and paid for by corporate interests. Vote for him and Vote for Hosterman if you care about preserving a strong democracy.

Commitment Unsurpassed James Van Dyke Pleasanton

Our gift of democracy will be lost if we abandon it to those who practice it this way. Tragically, this type of democracy has come to Pleasanton.

In her fours years on the City Council and as Mayor, Jennifer Hosterman has proven herself to be a leader locally, regionally and on a global scale. She has not been afraid to speak her mind on the issues that have a profound effect on our Quality of Life. Under her leadership, Pleasanton has flourished, and is truly a great city! But we are also faced with challenges, and we will need leaders with courage, vision, and a commitment to good government if we are to successfully chart the waters of our future.

As your Vice-Mayor, I am alarmed at what is happening to our local government. As voters and citizens of Pleasanton, you should be outraged. I trust you will reject this assault on our democracy, examine the issues and candidates carefully, and as a result you will join me in voting to re-elect Mayor Jennifer Hoster-

Softball Fields Timmy Barry General Manager, LARPD

I want to correct a couple of inaccuracies printed in recent articles in the local newspapers concerning youth softball fields provided by LARPD and the Livermore Valley Joint Unified School District. First, there is the notion that the school district or the charter school has taken away a youth softball field at the charter school site on Sonoma Ave. The Livermore Valley Charter School did indeed place portable buildings onto a youth softball field on their campus. However, it was done with the promise by the school district's maintenance department to the girls softball league and LARPD, of replacing that field in another location on that campus. In a recent phone conversation I had with the school district's maintenance supervisor, he confirmed that they are taking steps now on a schedule to build a replacement field at that site, to be finished in February for use this coming season by the girls' softball league.

Second, there is the notion that LARPD will take away a youth softball field currently located at the Bothwell Rec. Center Park. Discussions have taken place at three public workshops to plan the renovation of this twoacre park, and there were arguments by attendees on both sides of whether or not to keep the field there or use the space for additional neighborhood park amenities. The LARPD Board will review both types of designs at its next meeting at 7 p.m. on Wed., Nov. 8 at the Robert Livermore Community Center. It will be my staff recommendation that LARPD only remove the softball field if and when a substitute field has been provided. This issue does not affect this coming season, since LARPD plans to do the park renovation beginning in the spring of 2008, not 2007. LARPD is currently discussing options for additional softball fields with the school district, and is also exploring current park areas and the acquisition of park land that would provide additional fields. We are optimistic that one of these options will produce a replacement youth softball field, possibly even by the spring 2008 time frame. I fully expect to be able to provide both a replacement softball field and the kind of neighborhood park amenities voiced by many residents at these meetings. Lastly, I'd like to thank the Livermore Valley Charter School, Lon Goldstein, and in advance, the Livermore Valley Joint Unified School District. Brenda Miller (who still need to approve an extension of time), for responding to our request to extend our lease of space at the charter school for the continuation of our Friendship Center Adult Day Care Program for another year and maybe two. The school district has been very good to the Friendship Center over the past 13 years at the Sonoma School site. LARPD has worked diligently to explore a number of options for relocating this program to another facility by the June, 2007 deadline, but have still not secured a site as of this date. However, a number of possibilities are being developed and studied at this time, and I am confident one of them will be the right one for the center and the park district. Even though LARPD will have to pay quite a bit more per month to remain at this location and provide a loan to the charter school for portable building site expenses, the ability to keep the program where it is during the interim period, until we secure a future program site, was a key to the success of the program's relocation. This is a job well done by these community service agencies to the benefit of the Friendship Center's elderly clients who deserve all these efforts and more.

Information Chuck Wiedel Pleasanton

The level of my disappointment about the Friday, October 20th article in the Valley Times is difficult to express. The subject matter does not mesh with what most Pleasanton residents feel about our great City. It appears to be a documented fact that Mayor Hosterman did in fact use the City of Pleasanton e-mail to solicit endorsements and donations for her reelection campaign. Of course she denies it. That's what lawyers do. She then stated that her actions did not "rise to the level of a serious violation," according to the Times. More lawyer/politico-speak.

What she really meant was that it "did not fall to the level of ... Whether she did or not, it should be a fairly simple job for the City Attorney and City Manager to determine what occurred, and if the evidence supports the allegations, to refer the matter to the Alameda County D.A.'s office for appropriate action. I know for a fact that in our elementary school elections for class president, etc., "name-calling" is considered grounds for immediate disqualification for running for office. Should we apply any lesser standard for our mayoral elections? If we do, what message does that send to our young people? Not one I would have hoped for! We have laws on the books about these subjects, and we have them for a reason.

According to the interviews in the Independent a few weeks back, Mayor Hosterman's opponent characterized our City Council as "dysfunctional," and the Mayor acknowledged that it was one full of a lot of "tension." Who is responsible for that? I believe that the Mayor is the Chairperson of that body, and that the buck has to stop with her. What do you think?

The voters of Pleasanton deserve some answers to these questions, and they deserve to have them before November 7th! I made up my mind today on this race, and voted accordingly.

Weiskamp For Park Board Dick Quigley Pleasanton

We need to reelect Ayn Weiskamp to serve another term for our community. Ayn has been instrumental in getting new parks opened in Livermore, Dublin, Pleasanton, and Fremont and exciting opportunities are on the way that she has helped pioneer. Her goals of improving our area regional parks with more trails, access and egress to land bank areas and strategic acquisitions to complete regional connectivity indicates to me we need to make sure we give her our vote.

Jennifer is improving the qual-ity of life for all - by protecting our neighborhoods, encouraging new business, defending our unique Downtown, preserving waterways, creating parks, solving traffic issues, promoting green building, and yes, thinking outside of Pleasanton. Thank goodness she adds her voice to those of other mayors in a collective message about issues facing all Americans. How could we respect any elected leader who avoids even a small opportunity to speak out about the dangers of greenhouse gases and unnecessary war?

Packaging Elections Paulette Kenyon Pleasanton

As I walk my doggie around our neighborhood, I wince at the signs for Faustina and Brozosky. Brozosky, with his "Because it's all about Pleasanton" slogan, sounds like he's selling insurance. Yet, it also begs the question, "are you sure it isn't all about you?

Often sitting on the same lawns, we find Faustina signs, which, with his slogan, "Pleasanton's own," sounds like he's selling baby food or olive oil. Then, the question for his sign becomes "Pleasanton's own what?" I'm guessing that he's proud of being birthed here, hasn't been recently insourced from another county, state, or "gasp!" another country.

As I walk by my house with my McNerney, Cook-Kallio and Jennifer signs, I think of a fun slogan for McNerney - "Floats the dirt right down the drain."

Speaking of dirt. Steve or-dered city workers to fritter away their time sifting through Jennifer's emails in hopes of finding something, anything that would make her look bad. It's too bad he's sunk to that level. Seeing Faustina and Brozosky on the street corner together waving, it looks to me like it's pretty much the same crowd who turned out after the 2000 election with big American flags demanding and screaming on the corner for us to crown Bush king.

Anyway, my votes go to Jen-nifer, Cheryl Cook-Kallio, and oddly enough, Jerry Thorne. They say he has a mind of his own but is good at building consensus. Sounds good to me. I'm happy with those choices, after giving it much thought.

Vote for Brozosky Julie and Don Lewis Pleasanton

Steve Brozosky is a visionary who thinks outside the box and the winner is Pleasanton. While special interest groups were carving the Bernal property into tiny disjointed parcels (us included), Steve called for a deartistic rendering of a park that would reflect community needs while preserving the open park feeling for all of us to enjoy. In response to an immediate need for sports fields, Steve and Cindy McGovern formed a partnership with the school district that improved and created more fields benefiting both extracur-ricular sports and the school district. In addition to working well with Steve, this may account for the school board members supporting him in his bid for mayor. Steve's dedication to finding solutions for traffic and bringing $18 million to Pleasanton have been well documented. What really impresses us most about Steve is that he understands the "art" of living. As a supporter of the arts, he understands that quality of life adds up to harmony, perspective, balance, and character. Please join us in voting Steve Brozosky to be our mayor.

markable native intelligence, commitment, tenacity, and generosity of service.

Since moving to Pleasanton 24 years ago, Steve has demonstrated in myriad ways that he is dedicated to improving his community - from volunteering at 4-H, Pleasanton schools, and senior facilities, to founding Government Outreach, a provider of software that helps connect local governments to its citizens.

As a businessman, volunteer, city council member, and father, Steve always solves problems with practicality and creativity.

Steve's priorities for Pleasanton are the right ones: focusing on Pleasanton issues, restoring Council teamwork, traffic, fiscal responsibility, and preparing the community for disasters.

One thing you can be sure of: Steve always delivers what he says he will. Some leaders are well-intentioned but impractical. Steve is well-intentioned and effective.

Retain Hosterman as Mayor Carl W. Pretzel Pleasanton

I served on the Bernal Task Force Committee that Mrs. Hosterman co-chaired and found her to be equitable and efficient. Her performance as our mayor has been no less exemplary. She has consistently preserved the high standard of living that we enjoy in Pleasanton. The two conferences she attended were on her own time and her own money. To claim Mrs. Hosterman's activities detract from her service to Pleasanton is as ludicrous as claiming Mr. Brozosky's past service to 4-H proves he will place farm animals before residents.

Frankly, I would have been

Re-elect Hosterman Fred Norman Pleasanton

In September, to celebrate my 70th birthday, I climbed to the top of Pleasanton Ridge. It is so beautiful up here. Pleasanton glows down below me, throbbing like a heart giving life to its surroundings. I turn to my wife and say, "I love this place." And I realize that this feeling of love is not just an automatic response to the beauty of my surroundings; no, certain people have worked hard to create this feeling in me and others.

I immediately think of the most recent local leadership of our city, that of Mayor Hosterman's. Without her energetic and successful efforts, I doubt that I would feel as I do now. Thank you Mayor Hosterman for this city that I call my home and brag about to others. She's up for reelection. Her leadership helped make Pleasanton the city that I love. Of course I'll vote for Her.

Her opponent wants to isolate Pleasanton from the rest of the world, as if the Global air we breathe does not come from far away, as if Peace is something we should despise, as if traffic is a little local problem that does not originate in places to the north and south and east. As I stand here looking down at this city that I love, I can't help but think that if he has his way, I will no longer feel the love for Pleasanton that I feel now. Please, for Pleasanton, reelect Mayor Hosterman.

Over a year ago, I sent a letter of concern about Pleasanton's traffic issues to Pleasanton's Mayor and Councilpersons, and only one of two mayoral candidates took the time to reply: Jennifer Hosterman. Jennifer's response was so helpful that we became friends, built around her remarkable willingness to cooperate with citizens on all manner of important Pleasanton issues. For example, rather than exclusively focusing on "band-aid" remedies, Jennifer has also supported improved access to alternative transportation (school buses and bicycles) to also innovatively address citizen's safety and health issues.

When Steve Brozosky's chose the slogan "it's all about Pleasanton," the hidden message was clear: his campaign is "all about Hosterman," and we could be in for four years of rancor. Despite anyone else's attempt to avoid core issues in this mayoral campaign, Jennifer's unsurpassed commitment and record effectively speaks for itself in Pleasanton.

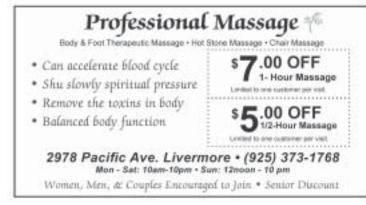

Democracy At Stake Matt Sullivan Vice- Mayor, City of Pleasanton

According to some estimates, only 20% of eligible voters will cast ballots on November 7th. With all the important issues before us, why the voter apathy? I would submit that in large part it's a reaction of cynicism and disgust to an election system that is controlled by money and is more interested in character assassination and spewing disinformation than it is in encouraging reasonable debate.

Please Vote for Ayn Weiskamp for Board Director-East Bay Regional Park District.

Vote for Hosterman Brian and Christine Bourg Pleasanton

We worked to elect former mayors Ben Tarver and Tom Pico, because we believed in their visions for Pleasanton. We now proudly support Jennifer Hosterman because she shares those visions and adds her own effective leadership style during times when such is more important than ever.

Ballistic beat the local Hanford team 5-0. Sunday morning the team fought hard but lost to Tracy 3-1 before bouncing back in the consolation game where they defeated Roosevelt from Fresno 4-0. The U15 Ballistic White came away with the third place trophy in this weekend's soccer action at the Alamaden Halloween Classic in Morgan Hill. Ballistic went 2 and 1 in preliminary pool play with their only defeat coming from the eventual tournament champions. In the first game of the tournament, Ballistic met up with the El Cerrito Galaxy and breezed to a 3-0 victory. Philip Viebeck was first to score for Ballistic with Cory Thomas finding the back of the net next off a pass from Evan Zolfarelli. It was then Tiago Abreu netting the third goal off a huge throw in from Zolfarelli.

In their showdown on Sunday morning against local favorites, DeAnza Hawks, Ballistic needed to post a win to advance and that's just what they did. It was a hard fought battle right up until the end with the only score coming off a handball in the box with Cody Hoster converting the penalty to give Ballistic the 1-0 victory. Kudos to keeper Brian Johnston who saved shot after shot in the waning minutes of the game. Knowing a tie would just not cut it, Johnston and the Ballistic defense held tight until the game whistle blew.

In the consolation match, Ballistic defeated San Bruno International, 4 to 0. Cory Thomas took the ball from midfield and fired a nice shot from the right side. A few minutes later, it was Patrick Yee crossing into Brian Johnston who was perfectly positioned as he headed it in for a 2-0 lead. Before the halftime whistle Nik Thompson would make it 3-0 after Tiago Abreu sent a corner kick in. Second half action slowed down and bit and although San Bruno would help out the Ballistic cause with an own goal, the score remained 4-0. Several runs to the net were made in the closing minutes by Christian Schlachte but the persistent San Bruno keeper denied them all. Ballistic came away with the win and 3rd place, continuing their streak of placing in every tournament they have entered.

Shoe Box Gifts Sought for Operation Christmas Child

Area residents can help to bring joy this Christmas by simply packing and collecting shoe box gifts for children through Operation Christmas Child.

Cross Winds Church, 6444 Si-

PET OF THE WEEK

Danny is long and lean, and built for speed. This long-legged, handsome boy is also very friendly and likes to have people around him. He is very social, and is eager to play with other dogs, and would be best with older children because of his size. He is a big and strong 2-year old Dobie/Hound Mix, and would do best in a home experienced with large dogs. For more information on Danny, call Valley Humane Society at (925) 426-8656. Valley Humane Society holds mobile pet adoptions for dogs and cats at Pet Extreme in Livermore every Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

erra Court, will receive gift-filled shoe boxes from the community during Operation Christmas Child's National Collection Week, November 13-20. The church will be open Monday -Friday 11 a.m. - 5 p.m., Saturday - Sunday 1 - 5 p.m., and Monday 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Operation Christmas Child is a ministry of Samaritan's Purse, the international Christian relief organization headed by Franklin Graham. Children, families, churches and groups fill empty shoe boxes with toys, school supplies, hygiene items, photos and personal letters. Operation Christmas Child delivers them around the world to girls and boys suffering from poverty, war, disease, disaster and terrorism.

Operation Christmas Child has handed out more than 46 million shoe box gifts since 1993 and last year reached over 7.6 million children in 95 countries.

This is Cross Winds Church's third year as a Collection Center. The church hopes to collect 15,000 shoe box gifts from Dub-lin residents and the surrounding area this year.

"Operation Christmas Child is one of the easiest and most fun ways to make a positive impact on another child's life," said Marilyn Fung, who is coordinat-ing the local collection. "I received two letters back from the Philippines for the shoe box gifts I gave last year. I received one from an 11-year-old boy who was so excited and so happy because it was the first time he received gifts from a person like me. Joy is more than doubled when we share a little love through a shoe box gift.'

Abby Peterson, raised in an orphanage in Russia, will never forget her shoe box. It contained the first doll she had ever received. "A shoe box really can make a difference-I remember how great it made me feel to know someone I didn't even know cared about me.³

Operation Christmas Child is a project of Samaritan's Purse. For more information about Cross Winds Church's participation in Operation Christmas Child, call 1-800-383-1459. LARPD, School Agree on Lease Extension

The Livermore Area Recreation and Park District (LARPD) Board of Directors voted to accept the principles of the Livermore Valley Charter School's proposal to extend LARPD's lease at the Charter School site. The site houses the Friendship Center, LARPD's adult day care program. LARPD will begin negotiations with the Livermore Valley Joint Unified School District regarding the details of the lease extension. The site belongs to the School District, which must grant and approve the lease extension.

The Charter School, with the School District's approval, will extend LARPD's lease until June 2008, with the option of extending it to June 2009, provided LARPD "makes substantial progress in relocating the program." The Friendship Center opened at the Charter School site (formerly the Sonoma School) in August of 1992. It is housed in 3 rooms at the site. The Friendship Center is a program designed to enhance the mental, spiritual, social and emotional well being of adults 50 years and over who cannot live alone due to physical or mental challenges. This type of program serves not only the clients, but provides muchneeded respite for the people who care for them. This is the only such program in the entire Tri-Valley.

The Livermore Valley Char-ter School also had its inception at this site, beginning classes at the start of the 2005/2006 school year. Currently a K-7th grade school, the Charter School plans to expand next year to K-8th grade, which will require more space for classrooms.

The School District notified LARPD in June of 2005 that it would not renew LARPD's lease, which expires in June of 2007.

Since receiving this news, LARPD staff has been scrambling to find a solution, exploring such possibilities as renovating its former District office on Trevarno Road, looking at commercial properties to lease, inquiring about City-owned land near the Civic Center on which to build, and evaluating the possibility of acquiring a former private school site on Vasco Road.

The Friendship Center is a state-licensed adult day care center. As such, the licensing for the program is site-specific, which means the program cannot simply relocate and resume operations. It must establish a new site, make renovations required for the program, and then go through the licensing process all over again. This all requires more time than the remaining period of LARPD's existing lease at the Charter School.

Board President Scott Kamena stated, "LARPD staff and Directors are grateful for the Charter School's willingness to work with them to find a solution.

Charter School Executive Director Lon Goldstein spoke at the Board meeting, expressing his appreciation for the importance of the Friendship Center Program. Goldstein noted that the school had to add eleven portables at a cost of over $1 million to accommodate growth this year. Only eight portables would have been required, if the three classrooms occupied by the Friendship Cen-ter were available. There are 737 students with 869 expected next year, Goldstein explained.

Goldstein said of the adult day care program, "I have learned this is a program that is greatly needed by those who utilize it.

LARPD will pay the installa-tion cost of the additional three portables, approximately $60,000. LARPD will also pay the charter school the $1311 per month for the lease of the portables. Once LARPD has vacated the site, the charter school would repay the original costs of installing the three portables. The monthly rental fee would be nonrefundable.

LARPD General Manger Tim Barry stated, "This is the break we've been looking for on this issue. I am confident the Park District will be able to find a new home for this program within this new time frame.³

Board member Dale Turner commented, "It is important that the charter school know we are pursuing another site. If we are serious about the Vasco Road site, I would suggest that the board send a letter of intent and a refundable deposit so we can investigate the site properly."

in 2006," according to Glover.

Representatives of girls softball expect to have over 200 league members at the LARPD board meeting.

If fields are lost, the LGSA has said that it would have to turn girls away. Last year, the league registered over 650 girls on 53 teams. Approximately 75 girls had to be turned away, because of the lack of fields.
