Children's Fair Set for Weekend

The Livermore Area Recreation and Park District (LARPD) presents the 2007 Children's Fair on Saturday and Sunday, September 8 and 9, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days at the Robert Livermore Community Center.

The fair will include free entertainment, educational booths related to health and safety, activities for children, and much more. Representatives from the Livermore Library will be on hand to issue library cards. A rock wall, inflatable jumping structures, and some carnival games will require a small fee.

Among the highlights are a bicycle rodeo, a "Fun With Science" demonstration by Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory scientists, entertainment by singer Debra Knox and other musicians, puppets, food booths, a free car seat check, free make-it and take-it crafts for kids, magic show, and much more.

"Education and fun is what the Children's Fair is all about," according to event coordinator Moe Kline of the LARPD. "There will be many resources available for parents and children to learn about childcare, child safety, academics and classes, mixed with two full days of fun entertainment and activities for families, and everyone is welcome," she adds.

The Community Center is located at 4444 East Avenue, Livermore. For more information, please call (925) 373-5700 or visit www.larpd.dst.ca.us.

Zone 7 Expects to Weather Water Cutbacks back in the water it receives from the state in the coming year. However, the agency expects to weather the reduction well, because of Valley water storage and contracts it has signed to augment its water.

Judge Oliver Wanger in U.S. District Court in Fresno ordered the cutback Aug. 31 for a one-year period while federal and state agencies work out a plan to safe-guard the Delta smelt. The smelt is an endangered species threatened by the federal and state water projects. The projects convey Zone 7 Water Agency faces a court-imposed 30 percent cut-and pump into canals that deliver water to Central and Southern California. The Delta pumps' back-flow forces the smelt into the pumps, killing many thou-sands of fish over the years.

Among the customers for the southward flow are Zone 7, Fremont and San Jose. The state approved the Peripheral Canal to convey the water past the Delta. The canal was defeated in an initiative in 1982. The state and federal agencies are working on a variation of it that might be more palatable to conservationists who were concerned about too much fresh water be-ing taken out of the Delta, and hurting species dependent on fresh water.

Zone 7, which serves 200,000 customers in Livermore, Pleasanton, Dublin and Dougherty Valley, obtains 85 percent of its water from the state water project (SWP). Zone 7 is in a better position for a cutback than many agencies, because it has a twoyear back-up supply of water in the Valley's underground water basin. It was stored there from the SWP during wet years.

Far-sighted management and boards at Zone 7 have also added

10,000 acre feet (AF) of water rights purchased from the Semitropic water storage district in the Central Valley. An acre foot can serve two households for a year.

Zone 7 doesn't pull the water directly from Semi-tropic, which is near Bakersfield. There is a swap. Zone 7 sends some of its water in wet years to Semi Tropic's intake on the Central Valley canal. Then, in dry years, it takes part of Semi-tropic's quota from the Delta.

Zone 7 added another 10,000 AF under a recent contract with the Cawelo Water District in the Central Valley. The swap would work the same way as the one with Semi-tropic. However, Cawelo needs to build facilities so that it can start storing water for itself, before it can allow Zone 7 to take any of Cawelo's quota from the state project.

The Semi-tropic water will help Zone 7 avoid the need to impose mandatory water rationing. The agency has long encouraged voluntary rationing, and calls attention to its web site at www.zone7water.com for a list of water conservation tips.

If there were more water conservation by Valley residents, it (See WATER, page 4)

Fair May Add 10 Weeks Or More Of Racing

The Alameda County Fairgrounds in Pleasanton has the prospect of adding 10 to 12 weeks of horse racing to the two-week schedule that it now runs at county fair time. The potential closure of the longtime Bay Meadows track in San Mateo County would free a long calendar of dates, which would be up for grabs for other northern California tracks. There are only two serious contenders for the dates - Golden Gate Fields in Albany and the county fairgrounds track, said fair CEŎ

Rick Pickering. Golden Gate Field's status as a professional track with a long racing season gives it the stature to add more dates, said Pickering. However, the Pleasanton fair also has good status in the eyes of the California racing board, because it has good track and facilities that are used to train 200 or 300 horses year around.

If we absorb some horses from Bay Meadows and some also go to Golden Gate Fields, we would have about 600 to 700 horses," said Pickering. There are 22 weeks of racing at Bay Meadows, and also at

Livermore Schools Lose Ground on Test Scores

Golden Gate Fields. Poor weather precludes granting some dates, chiefly early in the year. Pleas-anton would take 10 or 12 of the weeks. Golden Gate would likely pick up the remainder, saiď Pickering.

Pleasanton is still some distance from hearing about any expansion of its calendar. Pickering attended a meeting of the California horse racing board Aug. 24 in San Diego. He told the Independent that the board wants more details concerning the whole picture, especially the Bay Meadows part of it. The Bay Meadows owners want to see development of a shopping mall on their land. The City and County of San Mateo both have given their approval. However, homeowners nearby turned in a petition to put the approval up to a referendum. A judge ruled that there were not enough valid signatures on the petition. That decision has been appealed.

Hollywood Theme for Luncheon

Hollywood Producer, Marty Katz will be the guest speaker at the Livermore Chamber of Commerce Sept. 20 Wine Country Summer Luncheon.

Katz, who is considered one of the most experienced and capable producers in the country, has been involved in the motion picture and television industries for over two decades. He was associated with Walt Disney Studios as Senior Vice President, Motion Picture and Television Production for many years. Included among many of the award winning movies produced under his auspices are "Pretty Woman," "The Little Mermaid," "Down & Out in Beverly Hills," and "Titanic." In 1992 he formed his own independent production banner, Marty Katz Productions.

The luncheon will be held within the outside amphitheatre at Wente Vineyards, 5050 Arroyo Road in Livermore on Thursday, September 20 beginning at 11:30 a.m. Advanced reservations are required. Seats are $35 for Chamber Members and $45 for non-members.

For further information or to make reservations call the Chamber at 447-1606.

New Leaders at Las Positas

New leaders will guide the Las Positas College faculty and classified senates for the next two years.

Math instructor Greg Daubenmire will serve as president of the College's Faculty Senate, while Frances DeNisco will head the Classified Senate. DeNisco coordinates the community education program for Las Positas.

As leaders of their respective senates, they will play key roles in the shared governance of the College, joining the administration in the decision-making process.

Daubenmire has taught at Las Positas since 2000 and has been a community college instructor at a variety of Bay Area colleges since 1984. He anticipates working closely with DeNisco on issues of mutual concern.

The senates deal with everything from accreditation and employee evaluation processes to office assignments and concerns about parking spaces. One key area that the faculty senate will focus on this year is analyzing a 16-week semester instead of the current 17-week schedule.

He also hopes to move forward an ethics policy for the faculty, a project he's been working on for the last year in his role as vice president.

"If it's truly shared governance and there's an ethnics statement on the web site for students, the faculty ought to put one out there," he said.

DeNisco joined Las Positas in 2001 as an adjunct instructor and then moved into her current position as community education program coordinator. As such, she coordinates the offering of more than 100 fee-based classes for the community. These range from dealing with a midlife career change to a young learners academy for language instruction to prenatal yoga

She's looking to build more classified participation into the senate by making it easy for people to take part as well as rewriting the group's bylaws. They will also be watching how appropriate staffing levels accompany the college's major building program. Daubenmire replaces Melissa Korber, a mass communications instructor, while DeNisco takes over for Todd Steffan, a financial aid technician. For additional information, please contact Greg Daubenmire

Pedestrian and Bike Plan

Pleasanton has received a grant for $111,000 to be used in preparation of a pedestrian and bicycle master plan.

The money comes from County Measure B. The city council, at its Tuesday meeting, approved formation of a committee to oversee the development of the plan.

Staff proposed a five member committee comprised of one representative each from the Parks and Recreation Commotion, the Trails Ad Hoc Committee, and the Planning Commission, and two at-large residents.

Box Lunch Program for Kids to Expand

Open Heart Kitchen is expanding its Weekend Box Lunch Program to serve low-income children at Jackson Elementary School, located at 554 Jackson Avenue in Livermore.

The plan is to build on the success with similar programs at Livermore's Marylin Avenue, Portola, and Joe Michell Elementary schools. Healthy lunches are distributed to over 800 students the school week. Approximately 240 children will receive boxed lunches at Jackson Elementary School. Each box lunch consists of fruit, protein, starch, juice, and dessert. The lunches are assembled largely by volunteers from local high schools.

Seed funding for this program comes from Asbury Methodist Church's (Asbury's) Annual Flea Market scheduled for Saturday, September 8th from 8:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m. at the Asbury United Methodist Church, 4743 East Avenue, Livermore. Asbury's goal is to raise enough money each year to completely sponsor 15 of the 240 children at Jackson Elementary School to receive these lunches. Chuck Johnstone, Senior Pastor of Asbury Methodist Church, says, "This important project is so valuable to our community. No other organization, group or agency has even attempted to address the problem of weekend hunger among lowincome school-aged children in the Tri-Valley."

The Tri-Valley Adult Day Care Program (TVADCP) organization hosted a barbecue for the Friendship Center Adult Day Care Program on Monday, August 20th. Foundation Board members cooked and served lunch to the clients and staff. TVADCP will be at the September 9th Farmers Market in Livermore. tion. The message will be how important adult day care is in this area.'

The panel is recruiting people from Pleasanton, Dublin and Livermore, with a particular interest in those with marketing/ fund-raising skills, and someone who could serve as Secretary to the panel.

The program, licensed by the state Department of Social Services, has operated out of two and a half classrooms leased from the school district at the Sonoma School site in Livermore. The Friendship Center will have to move to a new location. The Livermore Valley Charter School, which shares the school site, wants to use the entire facility.

The Friendship Center has until June of 2009 to relocate.

The TVADCP Board raises funds to keep adult day care at the Friendship Center affordable for families. It has served as a nonprofit organization since 1988 and facilitates corporate giving campaigns and individual donations and grants. Among the largest corporate donors to the center are the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory, Sandia National Laboratory, Target Stores, Safeway, and the Hindu Temple. Now celebrating its 15th anniversary, the Friendship Center serves adults over 50 years of age who cannot care for themselves. The center is open during the hours of 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. The facility is licensed to serve 30 adults per day with a systemic approach to their mental, emotional and physical care, blended with social and recreational activities that are supervised by a professional and caring staff. Hot meals are provided daily by Spectrum Community Services. Friendship Center is a facility of the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District and is operated through the District's Senior Services Division.

Interested persons are encouraged to contact Marena Drlik, TVADCP Chair, at (925) 455-1760.

For more information, please call the Friendship Center at (925) 960-2420.

The average age of clients is 80. Most have some form of dementia, such as Alzheimer's, the most common form of dementia. An estimated 4.5 million Americans have Alzheimer's disease, more than double the number since 1980, and a number that is expected to grow to as much as 16 million by the year 2050.

Not Just A Golf Course

Springtown residents are concerned about the future of the Springtown Golf Course and plan to voice their concerns at the Livermore City Council meeting Monday.

The course, originally owned by the Springtown Homeowners Association, was taken over by the City of Livermore with a promise to retain the golf course. However, the course has been floundering financially, with its use declining. There are rumors the course might be sold for a low-income housing project.

The residents believe city neglect is behind the troubles. They say the city cares more about Las Positas, its other golf course, and tends to ignore Springtown in the distribution of budget funds.

While it has never been a big moneymaker, Springtown, at par 70, fills a niche among the golf courses of the Valley. It is beloved not only by its golf regulars, but also by many non-golfers who enjoy the parklike ambiance of the course. The land is frequented by wildlife such as blue heron, geese and fox. Frogs croak in the water traps.

No decision has yet been made about Springtown's future, reports Public Works Director Daniel McIntyre. He says town hall meetings will be held in the coming months to give residents an opportunity to vent their concerns.

We hope the City Council will heed them. Because it is so accessible to the public and serves such an important role as a kind of wildlife preserve, Springtown shouldn't be measured by the same standards as courses like Las Positas. Springtown is a community resource, rather than a golf course per se. It is one of the few amenities north of I-580. In our opinion, the preservation of this special site deserves Livermore's wholehearted commitment.

2008. However, horse training would continue until November 2008, said Pickering. The racing board wants firm information from Bay Meadows about whether it would stay open through all of 2008, before it would focus on what it might do about the racing dates. The Pleasanton track has the backing of unions, trainers, and the racing industry for more racing dates, Pickering said.

The fair, as a nonprofit corporation, did not go out and seek the extra business, but was asked whether it could accommodate more racing dates. More racing would be a boon to the fair. The current two weeks annually pays for improvements to the fairgrounds. Having more racing dates could add to that revenue, said Pickering.

On the other side, there would be millions in added expenses, because the fair probably would have to have two tracks, instead of the current dirt track. One would be a new synthetic track pointed by county supervisors, and 16 elected by the fair board members. All are volunteers.

The proposal for more dates is making its way through board committees. "We are looking at the idea philosophically. Just because the industry is asking us to do something, doesn't mean we have to do it," said Pickering. The fair board will take a very strong look at the outside financing, so that no financial consequences would boomerang back to the fair.

Pickering said that the fair board is sensitive to the concerns of Pleasanton residents about any new racing dates. He said that while the fair draws 20,000 to 30,000 people daily, the new racing dates on their own would bring only about 1500 or 1600 to the track. The hours would be noon to 6 p.m, since there is no big market for nighttime racing. That would avoid morning rush hour traffic.

At fair time, there is much amified sound from the grounds. However, the fair would enclose the grandstand area that would serve the customers for the new racing dates. The enclosed area would be air conditioned and seat 1600 people. The entire grandstand seats 6000. The racing dates would also generate a number of jobs, said Pickering. The fairgrounds has the oldest one-mile track in the United States. It was built on Don Augustine Bernal's land grant in 1858, the same year that California became a state.

The Advantage Goes to Incumbents

by Janet Armantrout

Hooray for Jeff Williams. His entry into the Livermore City Council race should be applauded for two reasons. It ensures that there will be a debate over issues. And, it counters, at least for one election, a troubling trend of uncontested elections.

COMMENTARY

There were no challengers to incumbents in the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District board and the recent Pleasanton School Board elections. In Pleasanton, there is actually only one school board member who was originally elected by voters, Kris Weaver. The other four were all appointed and subsequently returned to the board via the ballot.

This November, the Livermore mayor's race is uncontested. There is only Jeff Williams challenging the incumbents.

One of the incumbents, Lorraine Dietrich, earned her seat on the council via the appointment process. Dietrich had failed to be elected to the council in her previous attempt. After being appointed, she has been reelected twice.

There are two potential messages sent by the lack of candidates. One, everything is going well; two, it's too hard to unseat an incumbent.

It was anticipated that with twelve candidates vying to be appointed to the seat vacated by councilmember Tom Reitter that this November's election would generate more interest. It appears that being appointed to office inspired candidates to declare their desire to serve the city. The candidate selected would then be an incumbent in a future election. There would be name recognition with voters as a councilmember.

Of the original twelve, only

Jeff Williams has continued to pursue a council seat via the election process. It's an effort that requires organizing a team of volunteers, raising money, and acquiring a good pair of shoes to make all the walking more comfortable.

It is both time consuming and expensive to run a campaign. In Pleasanton, mayoral candidate Steve Brozosky raised over $64,000 in challenging incumbent Jennifer Hosterman. Hosterman was re-elected. She reported collecting just over $22,000 a few days before the election. The 2005 Livermore municipal races were the most expensive ever. Incumbent Marshall Kamena, as of Nov. 3, had raised over $80,000; challenger David Mertes close to $40,000.

When things are going well, incumbents have an advantage. An incumbent is identified with what is happening in the city. In Livermore, the direction the council has taken the city appears to be popular with voters. When people are happy, incumbents are most likely to be re-elected, even though an incumbent may not have supported many of the popular issues of the day.

One of the major issues Livermore voters have strongly supported is preserving North Livermore. Councilmember Lorraine Dietrich was a member of the committee that produced a plan to build up to 12,500 homes in North Livermore. She was also a strong supporter of the soundly defeated Pardee development plan for 2450 homes.

It will be up to Williams to convince voters he would be the best choice. He comes to the ballot with the support of Reitter, the highest vote-getter in recent elections. Those who know both Reitter and Williams believe that Williams would bring the same viewpoint on issues and the same strength of character to the council that Reitter brought.

Director of assessment and evaluation Jim Rallis stated, "Educators, parents, and students at every school should be commended for their outstanding achievements. The district's persistent focus on continuous student achievement is making a difference for Pleasanton students. We are a data-driven district, and, while all schools are celebrating successes, staff continues to review data to find ways to improve and continue to achieve at a high level."

FOOTHILL SHOWS MOST DRAMATIC IMPROVEMENT

The most dramatic improvement over last year's API scores came at Foothill High School, which jumped 52 points, from 832 to 884. Amador Valley High rose from 850 to 870.

At the elementary school level, Valley View led the improvement in points with a 16point boost from 901 to 917. Hearst rose 12 points from 914 to 926. Other results were: Alisal, 884 to 878; Donlon, 910 to 902; Fairlands, 930 to 918; Lydiksen, 894 to 897; Mohr, 960 to 965; Vintage Hills, 918 to 915; and

One development did mar the district's results. Pleasanton Middle School, which dipped to 907 from 912 last year, will see the 2006 results erased by the

The district's public information officer, Myla Grasso, explained that the district discovered this year that a Hart teacher copied 8th grade science test questions in March 2005, and shared them with three teachers, one each from the district's middle schools. The purpose was to help improve districtwide curriculum, which teachers were working on, said Grasso.

Several observers pointed out that having knowledge of the questions could allow teachers Grasso. to focus their instruction towards the test, without providing students with the actual questions.

When the district found out about the action this year, all of the teachers were disciplined. The rules are very clear that no test questions may be copied, said Grasso. The district reported the incident to the state, which said it would erase the 2006 results, although the decision has not been made final.

The district is considering an appeal. The state contended that in some way, the copying of the test helped Pleasanton Middle School students do better on the eighth grade science exams in 2006 than their cohorts at the district's other two middle schools, said Grasso.

Asked why the other two middle schools did not have their 2006 scores erased since teachers from their facilities also had copies of the same test questions, Grasso said the state simply pointed to the higher scores at PMS. Last year PMS was 88 percent proficient (on the 8th grade science test) another middle school was 74 percent and the third was in the 60s, explained

District officials who talked to the teachers do not believe they used the test questions for test preparation, said Grasso. "There is no evidence of showing questions to students. However, the state took what happened, looked at the test scores, and decided that's the action they would take," she said. "There are two issues here. The teachers did violate testing protocol. That's a district issue. There was disciplinary action taken. The state issue is 'Did our students receive an undue advantage by that action?' We are saying there was no advantage. They don't agree, because the numbers are so high," said Grasso.

Superintendent John Casey said the test scores were so high because of the excellent methods and focus used by teachers, 'who are delivering the type of instruction that the state encourages." The district "didn't necessarily agree with the decision to invalidate the scores. However, we continue to consider matters of test security very seriously, and have taken steps with staff to address the need to follow state testing guidelines," added Casey.

in the transition, according to a union press release.

Lawrence Livermore Laboratory employees are currently UC employees. Labor laws affecting their employment are administered by California's Public Employment Relations Board (PERB). When the transition to new management takes place October 1, Lab employees will be considered private sector employees. Rather than the PERB, the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) will have jurisdiction over unionization efforts.

As of June 26, SPSE-UPTE 11 had collected signed cards authorizing union representation from a majority of employees in the traditionally defined Skilled Trades bargaining unit and submitted these to PERB. Under PERB regulations, California public employees can "vote" for union representation by signing authorization cards ("card check") or through a PERB supervised election. The card check option is not available to workers under the NLRB unless the employer also agrees to it.

On July 7, PERB verified that the union had authorizations from a majority of eligible employees. Instead of agreeing to recognize the union and proceeding to negotiate with the represented employees, UC chose to file objections to the unit, seeking to exclude Laborers and include over 100 Machinists, a group which PERB had determined to be appropriately placed with other Technical employees in a Technical bargaining unit.

Both parties have met at two settlement conferences called by PERB Regional Director Anita Martinez. SPSE-UPTE has signaled its willingness to compromise in an effort to reach settlement. However, the union representatives contend that UC has refused to budge. Both UC and the union have to respond this week with justification for their respective positions.

In the meantime, Skilled Trades unit members are frustrated. HVAC Mechanic Brion Leri, a twenty five year Lab employee, summed up the sentiment, "Having attended both settlement conferences, it became clear to me that LLNL/UC is stalling to delay the PERB recognition process. Their tactics are transparent and the reasons for appeal weak at best. We have acted on Representative Tauscher's request to resolve this matter before October 1. UC has yet to compromise, while we have.'

advantaged gained 44 points, and English language learners (ELL) gained 35 points. The Caucasian subgroup added 72 points, for a score of 842.

"I expected our scores to go up. It was a nice surprise to see such substantial growth," says Marylin Principal Jeff Keller. "This is proof that our common frequent assessments and targeted instruction are working."

Scores for all middle and high schools dropped, except for Granada High School, which increased by 11 points to 796. Livermore High School's score dropped by 13 points to 763. Mendenhall Middle School lost 11 points, earning a score of 826. The other middle schools are still below 800: Christensen scored 774, East Avenue scored 770, and Junction scored 732.

The Livermore Valley Charter School (LVCS) earned a score of 865, a drop of 23 points from last year's API of 888.

"I am proud of how the students performed. An API of 865 is a respectable score," says LVCS Principal Tara Aderman. "The school continues to be one of the top three when compared to the elementary schools in the could cut into Zone 7's revenue stream. The agency's finance committee has recommended to the board that it boost water rates by 8 percent in 2008. Zone 7 staff member Karla Nemeth said that staff is not expected to recommend a greater increase when the board meets Sept. 18.

However, it's unknown just what water rate would have to be set in 2009, she said. "We believe we can meet our deliveries for 2008. Along with other agencies in the state, we can sort through the proposed cutbacks, and come to a better understanding of what the impact would be on our service area," said Nemeth.

Livermore Valley Joint Unified School District, and the highest performing in comparison to the District's middle schools.'

The API score is based on results from statewide standardized tests administered in the spring. Scores can range from 200 to 1000. The state has set 800 as the API target for all schools to meet. Schools that fall short of 800 are required to meet annual growth targets of 5% of the difference until that goal is achieved.

The API is one component of California's Accountability Progress Reporting (APR) system. Another is the Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) Report. Each school and school district must meet four AYP requirements: percentage of students scoring at or above proficiency in English-language arts (ELA) and math, API growth, and graduation rate for high schools.

These requirements must be met by each numerically significant subgroup. Schools that receive Title 1 funding and fail to make AYP for two years in a row go into Program Improvement (PI).

The District met all 38 of its AYP criteria. Of the District's five Title 1 schools, three—Junction Avenue Middle School, Marylin, and Portola—did not make AYP.

Junction failed to make AYP on one criterion out of 21-percent proficient for the Hispanic/ Latino subgroup on ELA. Since this 2006/07 was Junction's first vear to receive Title 1 funding, the school is not in PL

Marylin and Portola remain in PI for a second year. This is expected because federal law mandates that schools automatically remain in PI for two years. However, both schools failed to make AYP again this year. Marylin's ELL subgroup did not meet the percent proficient criteria for ELA. While this was the only AYP criteria that Marylin missed, it is one of the criteria the school failed to meet in 2005/06.

"I am certain we will make AYP next year," says Keller. "I expect strong growth for the next several years as the impacts of recent reforms, including smaller class sizes, are felt.'

Portola's API score dropped by 6 points to 675, making this the second year the school has lost ground on the API. In 2005/ 06, the school dropped 24 points, from 683 to 707. Portola's Hispanic/Latino, socioeconomically disadvantaged, and ELL subgroups failed to meet the percent proficient AYP criteria for ELA

"We are extremely proud of the progress made by both Marylin and Portola in improving student achievement," says Superintendent Brenda Miller. "While test scores are just one measure of success, we are working hard in response to the Program Improvement designation, implementing substantial educational improvements at Marylin and Portola.'

To exit PI, schools have to make AYP for two years. Portola and Marylin will remain in PI through the 2008/09 school year. If they make AYP in the 2007/08 school year, they will remain in PI year two status—School Improvement.

If either school fails to make AYP this school year, they will advance to Corrective Action status. At this point the District must take at least one of the following actions: replace school staff, implement new curriculum, decrease management authority at the school level, appoint outside experts, extend school year or day, restructure internal organizational structure of school, and inform parents and public of corrective action and allow comments.

an extension of Jack London Road would sever the 17 acres off from the main area of quarrying.

The El Charro specific plan includes a 42-acre prime factory outlet shopping center, which the city is touting as a big contributor to future sales tax revenue.

The legal action sought by Rhodes & Jamieson seeks an injunction to set aside the EIR and the city council's approval of the specific plan. It also asks the court to stop any further project approvals in the El Charro plan.

Judith Propp, Livermore senior assistant city attorney, said that the city offered to swap land with the firm. "However, they were not interested in that." She said that the city has talked about negotiations for compensation with Rhodes & Jamieson, and is continuing to try to resolve the issues.

As for the Jack London Drive extension, Propp said that the traffic studies showed that only a two-lane road is needed until 2030. Further, the land that would be taken away from mining is only a small corner of the quarry property, not 17 acres.

Neither Doug Jamieson, the company's president, nor an attorney for Rhodes & Jamieson were not able to be reached for before comment the Independent's deadline.

Over 80% of Livermore Students Pass California High School Exit Exam

By Patricia Koning

The good news is that in the 2006/07 school year, 82% of high school sophomores in Livermore passed the California High School Exit Exam (CAHSEE). The bad news is that those results are lower than the 2005/06 school year, when 85% of sophomores tested passed the math portion and 87% passed the English-language arts (ELA) section.

However, Livermore School Superintendent Brenda Miller says she is pleased with the participation rate, which was the highest ever. A total of 1,155 sophomores took the test in the 06/07 school year, compared with 1,133 in 05/06.

The increased participation rate is apparent in the data on subgroups. In 05/06, only a hand-ful of special education students in Livermore took the CAHSEE. In 06/07, 142 special education students took the math section and 144 took the ELA section, with a pass rate of 55% on both sections.

The number of English Language Learners (ELL) taking the test nearly doubled, from 53 in 05/06 to 93 in 06/07. The ELL pass rate went up, from 35% to 42%, in English language arts but dropped, from 53% to 45%, in math.

Granada High School Principal Chris Van Schaack says his staff made a concerted effort to test all ELL students last year.

"Many times students who struggle with the language will avoid standardized testing, aware of their own shortcomings. In fact, the ones most likely to avoid testing are the ones most likely to fail the test," he explains. "Another issue is that many of our ELL students are in their first or second year of learning English. We feel that we have a good chance of helping them if we can work with them for several years. In fact, we did not have a single EL student fail to pass the CAHSEE by the 12th grade if they began with us as freshmen."

Socioeconomically disadvantaged students also saw a drop in their pass rate. In 05/06, Districtwide, 70% of sophomores classified as socioeconomically disadvantaged passed the math section and 62% passed the ELA section. In 06/07, the pass rate for both sections of the test was 58%. Statewide, the pass rate for socioeconomically disadvantaged students was 65%. The sharpest decline was seen at Livermore High School, where the pass rate dropped from 76% in math and 71% in ELA in 05/ 06 to 62% (math) and 65% (ELA) last year.

The socioeconomically disadvantaged participation rate was only slightly higher in 06/ 07, with 139 students taking the CAHSEE, than in 05/06, with 125 students taking math section and 132 taking the ELA section. Despite the higher participation rate, more students passed in 05/ 06—88 in math and 82 in ELA than in 06/07, when 81 students passed both sections.

The CAHSEE assesses student mastery of state content standards in ELA and math, and became a California high school graduation requirement in 2006. It is a pass/fail test, but students do not have to pass both parts of the exam at the same test date.

Students are encouraged to take the CAHSEE in their sophomore year. If they do not pass one or both parts of the exam in 10th grade, they have two opportunities in 11th grade and three opportunities in 12th grade.

Miller says that Livermore students who need help to pass the exam receive targeted remedial education in areas of weakness identified in the exam. They receive intensive instruction in math and ELA during the regular academic year, and can participate in exit exam preparation courses during the regular school year or in summer school.

Parents and students are also invited to meet with their advisors to discuss all of the support options available to them. "We will continue to provide this range of intervention so that all students can be successful," she says.

The CAHSEE is only one of several high school graduation requirements. Students must also successfully complete specific courses and earn a certain number of academic credits in order to graduate. Last year 41 seniors in the District had not passed the CAHSEE in time for graduation.

"Through our review of data in past years, we have found that the majority of students in our district who do not pass the exit exam also lacked the required number of credits to graduate," says Miller. "Thus, the exit exam was not the only thing standing between them and a high school diploma."

Majority Ignore Adrienne Smith Livermore

Our mayor and city council have let Livermore down by approving the airport expansion. No one can predict how much added noise and pollution will result, but one thing is for sure, money was the driving force. This issue should have been put on the ballot, instead of five people deciding; especially since one of those five people is retiring and moving away from Livermore.

With an election approaching, reelection candidates will have a lot of explaining to do. I have lived in my home for about 23 years, and in my opinion, jet and plane traffic have doubled in Livermore in three years. Since the City of Livermore currently has no control over airport operations, and will continue to have no control after the FBO takes over, if residents try to complain they will be told the same thing they're told now, "Sorry, we have no control over the airport."

The night the Livermore City Council approved the expansion, the opposition was so overwhelming that the people had to sit in three different rooms. I assume that was to lessen the threat of one large angry crowd. Because at the Granada High airport city council meeting, the bleachers were wall-to-wall protest signs against the expansion. Recently, a lady pilot wrote a letter blasting a homeowner who had written a letter describing her displeasure in the council's approval of the airport expansion. This is the second time that pilot has blasted the same woman. This pilot quoted the same airport-provided fabricated figures she's been quoting for two years as if everyone will accept them as being true. The handful of outspoken pilots who pushed hard for this expansion obviously have airport related businesses. They don't care about the residents or the recreational pilots who will be pushed out of the airport when the influential jet owners move in. They "pretend" (along with the Livermore City Council) that they don't know that added airport operations will increase noise. Obviously, more planes and jets mean more noise, more pollution and more crashes.

It's inconceivable to me that people would burden other people like this and force them to live with the negative impacts of a busier, expanded airport just for their own monetary gain. Hopefully, karma will even the score.

Best for Pleasanton Gerry Brunken Pleasanton

Staples Ranch - what is best for Pleasanton?

Best? Certainly not any suc-

way only leads to immense future revenue loss for Pleasanton.

Alameda County owns this land. Pleasanton may annex it and has signed a memorandum of understanding with the county to complete an agreed to long planned improvement project including a senior retirement and assisted living community, acreage for Hendrick Auto Group, small retail, and the 17-acre park.

If successful, the initiative would invalidate the MOU with the county, allowing the county to reassign the land to Dublin or Livermore for development. The proponents of Gateway scoff at this possibility, but that outcome is very real. Five million dollars in annual revenue are at stake here, an attractive incentive for either city. Pleasanton residents would see zero benefits.

Would our citizens want to see something like Dublin's Hacienda Crossings on the land? It could happen, and if we lose this 124 acres, there would be no community park and no future dollars from this location to support our schools, or to assist youth activities, improve any park, plant one tree, and no senior community for those who might desire to live there.

In other words, a total loss for our city. The Gateway initiative is not a good idea. If asked to sign a petition for it, please citizens, politely decline.

Keep Cities Separate Sal De La Torre Livermore

We are very fortunate that we have a rock quarry separating Livermore from Pleasanton. Many people are now concerned with possible new construction in the Staples Ranch and the new Livermore plans for construction in the Rhodes & Jamieson property and the adjacent unincorporated area.

It has been our aspirations and dreams to remain a small town with definite division separating Livermore from Pleasanton and Dublin. If there is construction in this area there must be land set aside for open space, vacant land, or a green belt between Pleasanton and Livermore. The Livermore City Council must take action so that Livermore does not become grow into another Dublin, San Ramon, or Danville where there is no separation or distinction between cities. Another Los Angeles, San Jose, Oakland is now in the making in the Livermore valley. The 580 freeway is example of no planning or constraint to growth.

The mind set philosophy of some city councils is that they must to fill every vacant piece of land with a house, building, or business. These people moved to get away from the city and brought the city with them.

A Proposal Henry D. Shay Livermore

I have a humble proposal.

It has been reported that the city of Livermore is considering converting the green space that is presently the site of the unprofitable Springtown golf course into high density, low cost housing. Of course, hundreds of families living in modest abodes in the surrounding neighbor have wagered their savings and future incomes on the preservation of the character of Springtown, which depends to a large extent on the continued existence of the golf course. dant vineyards south of town. Oh! What am I thinking? More affluent and influential persons will unquestionably veto any such proposal encroaching on their backyards.

Every time some diabolical developer casts a greedy eye on the tracts north of I-580, the town rises up in righteous rage. When the city solons themselves consider sacrificing Springtown to balance their budget, should there not be an equal outcry? Yes, where is it?

SPORTS NOTES

Gymfinity Gymnastics

Isla Andrews was recently named to the 2007 Diamond TOPS National Team. Isla is 8 years old and trains at Gymfinity Gymnastics in Livermore. TOPS is the USA Gymnastics talent opportunity program that identifies talented, young gymnasts so they can be monitored and aided by USA Gymnastics in their development.

Each summer more than 3, 100 gymnasts age 7 to 11 attend regional testing run by USA Gymnastics all accross the country. The top forty 7 to 8 year olds and top sixty 9 to 11 year olds are named to the national team. The 9 to 11 year olds attend a training camp where they are coached by the USA National Team coaches. The 7 to 8 year olds are too young to attend the camp. They receive national team warmup suits and leotards and qualify their coach to attend the national camp to learn from the national team coaches.

The Livermore Elite Explosion U13 Division 1 girl's soccer team made their way to Alameda this past weekend to compete in the Bay Oaks Labor Day Classic. Two strong games Saturday gave the Explosion the edge going into their last preliminary game on Sunday where all they needed was a win to move on to the championship match or a tie to advance to the consolation game, the unfortunate occurred and the Explosion ended their weekend with a loss.

Livermore Elite Explosion 3, Pleasan-ton Rage AC 0. The Explosion played a great passing game including a beautiful 3 touch pass from Alex Boucher to Audrey Walke to Jessica Floyd to Brooke Rittmann who finished with the fourth touch going in the net past the Rage keeper. Boucher put in the second score and Taylor Roach drove in goal number three. Great midfield play by Alexa Hubbs, Kassidy Peters and Sierra Cassels.

Livermore Elite Explosion 2, Bay Oaks Speed Demons 2. The Explosion took the Speed Demois 2. The Exposion took the field in this game as a force not to be taken lightly as they played outstanding against the Speed Demons who are ranked 4th in North-ern California. After trailing 1-0 in the first half, the Explosion came back with a great goal by Mandi Alvarez who followed in a deflected Carli Floris shot attempt. The Explosion took the lead 4 minutes into the second half when Taylor Roach successfully put in a direct kick off a foul on forward Danielle Lacombe. Bay Oaks later on came back to tie the game. Consistent defensive pressure from Kerry Stein, Kylee Southwell, Cierra Comfort, Jennie Harmison and Explosion keeper Victoria Case combined for a great job holding off the powerful offensive strength behind the Speed Demons. Livermore Elite Explosion 1, Ajax

United 2. Despite striking first and early, with a goal 4 minutes into the game by Jessica Floyd, the Explosion struggled in the second half and could not hold off the United as they fought back putting 2 in the net to seal the win. Danielle Lacombe and Alex Boucher executed great midfield control in the game. The Livermore United boys U13 soccer team tied 3 matches at the Sonoma County Classic Soccer Tournament over Labor Day weekend.

Livermore faced the De Anza Force 94 team in their first match, playing to a 1-1 tie. It was an evenly matched game with Livermore scoring the first goal of the game in the second half off of a throw in by Damon Tregear to Evan Enzmann, who crossed the ball to Brandon Marantan for the finish. De Anza tied the game up minutes later off of a corner kick opportunity

Later, Livermore took on Sacramento United America tying again 2-2. Ryan Gollott scored both goals for Livermore; one in the first half assisted by Marco Arana-Nolasco and Jeff Gellerman and one in the second half with aid from Enzmann and Gellerman, putting Livermore ahead by 2. Sacramento rallied, dominating the rest of the game and managing to get 2 late goals through the Livermore defense to tie the game. On Sunday, Livermore battled the San 0-0. Tristan Lewis, the Livermore keeper, along with defenders Cody Martinez and Juan-Carlos Alfaro played well to maintain a chott out BUSC had some great opportunities, only to be denied by the Hammer GK. A DK from 20 yards by AZ somehow snaked around the wall, hit the far post, and spun in for the goal in the 15th minute. Again finding them-selves down, United mounted a furious, onesided attack in the second half. Despite constant pressure, United could not convert several good chances and fell 1-0. The quarterfinals were against RFC Attack, who had not yet allowed a goal this tournament. United played them evenly through the first half, led by Jeff Squier's midfield toughness. The Attack found an opening on the wing and a drop pass to an open midfielder led to a 1-0 lead after 12 minutes. An Attack red card gave United an opening, but they could not exploit this. In the 52nd minute, the Attack scored again on a corner kick for the 2-0 final.

The Friends of the Livermore Library has received the 2006 Best Friends Award for its print newsletter. The award comes from Friends of Libraries USA (FOLUSA). The Livermore Friends received this national award for the best newsletter for medium size libraries.

In determining winners, the FOLUSA Best Friends evaluated the printed materials that promote programs and special projects coordinated by the Friends.

The Friends of the Livermore Library is an association for people interested in books and a city library. The purpose of the Friends is to educate the public on library services and needs and to stimulate gifts of books, magazines, desirable collections, funds, endowments and bequests.

Since its inception, Friends of the Livermore Library has donated more than $400,000 to the Livermore Public Library to fund special purchases and projects such as:

Books and non-book items

• Financial assistance to help open the Springtown and Rincon branch libraries

- Underwriting the Library's 1996 Centennial Celebration
 Funding for Livermore Project READ.
- Support of the Library Authors and Arts program

• Operation of the Friends Bookstore at the Livermore Civic Center Library

Anyone interested in supporting the Livermore Public Library and its programs may join the Friends of Livermore Library. A membership form and other information can be found at the Friends website, http://www.friendsoflivermorelibrary.com, under membership.

Garrison Selected as ABWA Outstanding Business Woman

Donna Garrison, Realtor with Keller Williams Tri-Valley, will be honored as 2007 Outstanding Business Woman on September 9th by the American Business Women's Association (ABWA) Bay Area Council and eWomenNetwork at a luncheon to be held at the Wyndham Hotel in San Jose.

Garrison was chosen for her extensive community contributions as well as her diverse professional achievements. As a founder of the Ruby Hill Giving Thanks Charity Committee, Garrison currently serves as President of the Board. She has worked in various capacities since 1997 to help the organization raise over $2.2 million to support local charities such as Hope Hospice, ValleyCare Medical Foundation, Taylor Family Foundation's Camp Arroyo and Open Heart Kitchen.

Partnering with her sister, Garrison is a successful Tri-Valley realtor. She is also an independent film producer, having produced several films highlighting women's issues, one of which was accepted at the prestigious Sundance Producer's Conference last year. Early in her career, she worked at Microsoft with some of the brightest, innovative and giving people she's ever met in-cluding Melinda French Gates. She continues to pass on these lessons by inspiring children to dream big and give to others while volunteering with the Pleasanton Partnerships in Education Career Day efforts.

American Business Women's Day was proclaimed in 1986 by President Ronald Reagan to acknowledge the meaningful and increasing contributions made by American business women to the economy. The ABWA organization greatly assisted in creating this special day for American business women. For over 20 years, the ABWA's Bay Area Council looks into the larger community to recognize three outstanding business women in celebration of American Business Women's Day.

quarterfinals of the NHB tournament before being ousted by the RSF Attack. In pool play, United first took on Mt. Diablo Blast. They possessed the ball for the first 90 seconds of the game and moved the ball around at will. However, as does often happen, Mt. Diablo brought a ball down the field and suddenly scored, and the United trailed 1-0. In the 11th minute, a long Brett Wahar nut found Neator. Warerto who Weber punt found Nestor Negrete, who wheeled and fired. He was denied on a great diving save, but BUSC got the corner. Min-Joon Oh put the ball into the mix and Tommy Sander knocked it in for the tie at half. United pushed hard in the second half, and it paid off pushed hard in the second half, and it paid off late. In the 54th minute, a BUSC corner was cleared out of the box to a waiting Trevor Danielsen, who knocked it back in. Matt Carlucci was waiting behind the keeper and beat him cleanly for the game winner 2-1. Game two was against the TVSA Hawks.

They took the game to United in the initial minutes of the game. They had several corner kicks and found a gap on a deliberately built up play down the center. A Hawk drove one low right for the 1-0 lead. United responded in the 17th minute when Michael Florian In the 17th minute when Michael Florian stole a clearing attempt and sent it back to Negrete at the left post. He went far post and evened it at one. In the 23rd minute, a brilliant individual effort by Trevor Morrissey gave BUSC the lead. He stole a clearing attempt on the right side of the defense, juked two having a stored arguing the known and heat Hawks, steered around the keeper, and beat the last defender trying to stop him for the go-ahead goal. United tightened up in the second half, led by Alex McArthur and Justin Mullaney, but had to survive a 60th minute throw inc the hox for the win. The game for throw into the box for the win. Seasons in Our Valley

The term "dog days" was coined by ancient Romans. The dog they referred to was the constellation Canis Major, or Big Dog. Sirius, the brightest star in our sky, is in this group of stars. As the constellation begins to rise just as the sun sets in this time of year, the Romans believed that the light from Sirius increased the light from the sun, resulting in hotter weather. Officially, this time frame in the Northern Hemisphere is between July 3 and mid-August. Most of us today, however, consider all of August and even some of September as dog days-the part of summer that usually is hottest and seems to last longer as we yearn for cooler rainy days of autumn. This year the continuing hot spell seems especially cruel after a mild summer; the Big Dog is dragging his tail and laughing at us.

It is said that the sensuous, grassy hills surrounding the Livermore Valley have only two seasons-wet and dry. From October until May, residents can expect a rainy day once in a while. The wettest months are usually December, January, and February. William P. Bartlett, Livermore's early newspaperman, recalled the old days here before gravel or hard-top roads. "Then came long wet winters, when the roads vanished, and horses pulled their hoofs from the stiffened adobe mud with a report like a pistol shot. Their shoes were sometimes pulled from their hoofs by the tenacity of the adobe." When heavy rains came, the two major streams, Arroyo Mocho and Arroyo Del Valle, normally barely flowing or even dried up, suddenly could become raging torrents.

Winter rains today often bring mudslides, which can result in road closings but rarely threaten homes here in our valley. Late autumn rains typically saturate the ground, and when the subsequent winter rains are heavy, the ground can no longer drain adequately. Groundwater comes to the surface, taking surrounding earth with it. Local hills often show depressed areas, the results of slow mudslides that have oozed down like thick syrup. Below the slide, a tongue-like bulge will appear. In natural areas, the slide kills trees and shrubs in its path, as their roots are inexorably torn out on their downhill ride.

Livermore's average annual rainfall is 14.6 inches. The driest year on record since 1870 was 1975-76 when only 4.82 inches of rain fell; the wettest was 1982-83 with 31.95 inches. Between June and September, the only rain likely in the valley is a thunderstorm, and even that is rare. During the wet months, grasses revive to turn the hills and pastures the lush green of Ireland. During the dry months the grasses become the gold of harvest and then later take on a faded browner tone.

Under the trees, however-in woods, open woodland, and riparian woodland-four seasons are easily noticeable. Spring flowers and wild almond and cherry blossoms begin to appear near the end of February, along with field mustard. In March and April spring bloom is at its peak in the hills. As the ground dries, flowers adapted to less moisture, such as mariposa and blow wives, appear. Summer in the valley is hotter than the coast, but not as hot as the central valley; the sky remains a deep blue with that "California" weather travelers love. The hottest day in Livermore was in September 1950 when the temperature reached 115 degrees. Typically the hot spells do not last long before the west winds pick up and bring ameliorating temperatures.

In autumn months, bigleaf maple, sycamore, and cottonwood trees brighten the riparian corridors with yellow. Up on the hillsides, blue oak leaves become copper-colored. And, of course, in Livermore itself the four seasons are visible in the non-native plantings in gardens and parks.

Snow visits the Livermore area in the winter, most often visible on Pine Mountain and Cedar Mountain to the south or on the peaks of Mt. Diablo. Occasionally, however, even the valley has snow. Tilli Calhoun remembered the snowstorm of early December 1932 because a boy threw a snowball with a rock in it that scratched her left eye. Although there is no record of the depth of the snowfall, the Herald noted that it was the heaviest since 1922. Archie Young, who was born in 1876, left a description of snow falling in the Altamont hills at the Young farm when he was a boy: "A bunch of us were in the blacksmith shop looking out the door. The clouds were low and heavy, the wind quite strong and cold. It began to snow way up at the top of the 'Big Hill' and slowly came down lower and lower. Soon it was working its way across the orchard and vineyard, and just as it was about to blot out the house, the wind which had been blowing up until then, died out completely, and then the snow started around us. Not a breath of air, not a sound, and those big flakes of snow sifting down so thick we could hardly see the house. ... Did the storm last? I don't know. Who was with me? I don't know, nor do I know how old I was, only that I was quite small. I know now, looking back, that it must have made a beautiful picture, but it wasn't the beauty that impressed it on my memory at that age. You would think it would be the memory of running out in the snow, or the snowballing after that I should remember, but no, just the slow advance of the falling snow.'

SHORT NOTES

Safe Toys

Woopsiedaisy Toy Shop in Liver-more wants residents to know that it does not carry toys made by Mattel or Fisher Price, the two major companies voluntarily recalling millions of toys imported from China. The recent toy recalls have caused worry and confu-sion for many parents and Woopsiedaisy Toy Shop is working to ensure that their customers feel confident that they are purchasing the safest toys for their children.

Woopsiedaisy Toy Shop imports several brands of toys directly from Germany and France and is carefully keeping track of the recall of any toys made in China. Woopsiedaisy is happy to help you choose toys that meet and/ or exceed current toy safety standards. To assist you with this, Woopsiedaisy will give 15% off of all Vilac, Corolle, LEGO, and HABA Toys. These companies use completely non-toxic, childfriendly substances.

"We do not sell toys that we would not let our own children play with. While we do have a large selection of products, our store is not very big. With that, we have been able to hand select every toy for its safety, durability and fun. We do not carry toys to simply fill our shelves," declared Elizabeth Fields, owner of Woopsiedaisy.

For information, please contact Elizabeth Fields atWoopsiedaisy Toy Shop. 154 South J Street, Livermore.

Share the Road

Alameda County Supervisor Scott Haggerty kicked off the county's Share the Road Safety Program last week with the publication of a new education brochure. "The goal of the program is to make our roads safer for everyone with a focus on educating pedestrians, bicyclists and motorists on the lawful and courteous use of roads," said

Haggerty. The county has 170 miles of road in the unincorporated eastern area, most within Haggerty's district. The roads have been severely impacted during the morning and afternoon commute hours as motorists seek alternate routes to avoid 1-580. Haggerty's office has been working with the California High Patrol and Sheriff's office to increase traffic enforcement on the roads. While law enforcement efforts can be effec-tive, Haggerty conceded that there are not enough officers to cover 170 miles of road every minute of he day

The roads are located in rural settings primarily zoned for agriculture The narrow, two-lane roads have also become increasingly popular with bicyclists for training and major cycling events and on weekends for car clubs and motorcyclists. Residents have beEN especially affected as they attempt to enter or exit their driveways or move equipment or livestock along the roads.

In addition to the brochure, the county has installed Share the Road signs along east county roads. The brochure will be distributed to libraries, DMV offices, businesses and at community events. It may also be downloaded from the county's website at www.acgov.org/pwa under commu-nity update.

Free Bus Rides

Wheels offers Tri-Valley middle school students a special free two-week pass aboard its fixed route bus service during the first two weeks of school. The Try Transit to School Program introduces students to the local transit system

The free pass was mailed directly to students from the school districts. Students will receive route and schedule information for the bus route that serves their neighborhoods. Individuals who have not received a packet can contact their schools or Wheels. For additional information, go to www.wheelsbus.com or call 455-7000.

Prepare for Science Fair

The Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory is offering several sessions that will help students and teachers prepare for the Tri-Valley Science and Engineering Fair in March 2008.

Free presentations are designed especially for that purpose. They include following Science Fair 101 for Students: Satur-days, Sept. 8 and 15 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. This presentation will help students learn the ten steps in preparing a winning science fair project; take part in hands-on activities; and hear discussions by experienced teachers, past winners, judges and Lawrence Liver-more National Lab scientists.

Science Fair 101 for teachers, Sat., Sept. 29 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. This presentation will offer teachers: tips on how to effectively mentor their stu-dents' projects; and suggestions on ways to maneuver the safety aspects, rules and regulations. Teachers also will hear from fellow teachers, past winners, judges and Lawrence Livermore National Lab scientists.

Sessions are free and conducted at the Edward Teller Education Center at Lawrence Livermore National Lab, East Gate Drive off Greenville Road. The presentations are sponsored by the Lawrence Livermore National Lab and the Edward Teller Education Center. Registration is required for all presentations. For more information or to register, go to the Web at http:// education.llnl.gov/sf101/ or call (925) 422-5059.

Funds for Research

Safeway shoppers and employees joined together in the month of June to raise a record $10.7 million to fund research programs aimed at finding a cure for prostate cancer. By making donations when shopping at local stores, the fund-raising program is making a huge impact, raising $28 million since it began in 2000.

Each year the company partners with the Prostate Cancer Foundation (PCF), the world's largest philanthropic source of support for prostate cancer research. Funds raised by Safeway support a broad range of cancer research projects at leading research and mediinstitutions.

Last year, the PCF and Safeway launched the PCF/Safeway Career Development Program, which supports innovative cancer research projects directed by young scientists and enables them to launch and establish careers in prostate cancer research Award recipients came from such insti-tutions as the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Center in Seattle, Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, the University of California at San Francisco, and the University of California, Los Angeles

Nearly all of the funds raised by Safeway were the result of asking customers to add small contributions to their grocery bill. Safeway and the PCF also joined forces with supporters in the entertainment and sports world to create additional fundraising vehicles. For example, recording artist Jeff Austin Black recorded a special three-song CD sampler to give to customers who do-nated at Safeway stores.

Harvest Park Environmental Club Recycling Many Items

The Harvest Park Middle School Environmental Club is recycling in unique ways and would like the public's help.

During September, students are recycling empty laser, fax, copier, and inkjet cartridges as well as used cell phones, laptops, Palm Pilots, iPods, DVD's, electronic games, and game systems. The community is encouraged to bring drop off items to the schools' main office from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The students' goals are to preserve the environment by keeping these harmful items out of landfills and to raise funds to complete the Alternative Energy Learning Lab Teaching Greenhouse, an extension of the Harvest Park Garden Of Character. The site is currently maintained as a fenced garden, wildlife habitat and outdoor classroom on the school property.

The recyclable items that are collected are returned to Cartridges for Kids® (CFK). Harvest Park Middle School Environmental Club is among more than 12,500 non-profit organizations nationwide that are helping the environment by recycling

To learn more about Harvest Park Middle School Environmental Club recycling program, please call Marsha Jones at (925) 426-4444 or email mjones@pleasanton.k12.ca.us. The school is located at 4900

New Program in Valley Teaches Teens about Jewish Religion and Heritage

Midrasha Tri-Valley/Tri-Cities, a program for Jewish teens in grades 8 through 12 to learn about their religion and heritage in a fun environment, is accepting registrations for its first year at its new location in Pleasanton. Previously the Midrasha program was held in Fremont.

Midrasha Tri-Valley/Tri-Cities, which is open to Jewish teens from Pleasanton, Livermore, Dublin, Sunol, Fremont, Newark, and Union City, will meet at Congregation Beth Emek at 3400 Nevada Court in Pleasanton each week on Sunday evenings from 7:15 to 9:15 pm beginning Sunday, September 30. Besides the weekly Sunday evening program, students can join other East Bay Midrasha students and attend weekend retreats during the year at Camp Newman in Santa Rosa; take excursions to local spots such as Angel Island and San Francisco; go on a trip to Washington, DC; and participate in the Center for Jewish Living and Learning (CJLL) summer program "Let's Go Israel."

Midrasha's weekly Sunday evening classes are designed to build Jewish identity and Jewish community. The program emphasizes intellectual and spiritual growth, Jewish values, and communal responsibility. Midrahsa Tri-Valley/Tri-Cities, a part of the Midrasha/East Bay Jewish Community High School network, offers an innovative program that includes formal classroom learning, informal educational experiences on retreats and excursions, and opportunities to develop life-long friendships.

The annual cost for Midrasha tuition is $360 for teens affiliated with Temple Beth Torah in Fremont, Congregation Beth Emek in Pleasanton, or a temple associated with another Midrasha. For non-affiliated families, the cost is $485. There are additional costs for the retreats and excursions. Financial aid is available. There is an early bird registration discount of $18 per family for registration/ payment completed by September 10 and a multiple student discount of $18 each for the second or third sibling concurrently registering

There will be an opening day celebration on Sunday, September 30 from 7:15 to 9:15 pm at Congregation Beth Emek, with a student program featuring pizza and activities run by CJLL retreat staff and a separate wine and cheese reception for parents hosted by the Midrasha Board. Program staff will be in attendance. Those who have not preregistered for the program can register on opening day.

Brochures and registration forms will be mailed in mid-August to local Jewish families who have teens. To be placed on the mailing list or for more information on Midrasha, including retreats, excursions, and financial aid, call Cathy Taylor at 925-549-1664.

Midrasha Tri-Valley/Tri-Cities is sponsored by Temple Beth Torah and Congregation Beth Emek. It is operated in partnership with the Center for Jewish Living and Learning and is a beneficiary of the Jewish Community Federation of the Greater East Bay and Sinai Memorial Chapel.

OBITUARIES

William L. Lynn

William L. Lynn died August 27, 2007. He was 75.

Bill was born on Dec 22, 1931 in Indianapolis, IN., moved to Oakland in 1956 where he worked as Systems Analyst. He has been a resident of Livermore for the past 20 years. He enjoyed golfing at Springtown frequently, and made many trips to Pismo Beach and Cruisin.

Bill is survived by his wife of 50 years, Joan Lynn, his son, Edward Lynn, his daughter and son-in-law, Kary and Steve Freitas, and his granddaughter, Michele Freitas.

Mass was celebrated Friday, Aug 31st at 1 St. Michael's Catholic Church in Livermore. Burial followed at St. Michael's Cemetery.

Arrangements by Callaghan Mortuary.

Marlys Lee Graham

Marlys Lee Graham went home to be with the Lord on August 23, 2007 after a long battle with diabetes.

She was born April 6, 1941 in Long Beach. She worked in the space and information division of Northern American Aircraft and later became a registered nurse. She felt blessed to be able to deliver babies. Purple was her favorite color. She loved cats, riding horses, and gardening. Her amazing smile will be missed. As a member of the First Presbyterian Church, she loved to sing in the choir and help with the youth group.

A memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. on Sun., Sept. 9 at the First Presbyterian Church, 4th and L Streets, Livermore.

In lieu of flowers, please make donations to either the SPCA or the American Diabetes Association.

Arrangements by Callaghan Mortuary.

Corday (C.L.) Johnson, Jr. C.L. Johnson, Jr. passed away peacefully on August 20, 2007, from complications following surgery at ValleyCare Medical Donald G. Sotl in May of 1952. Beverly and Donald eventually moved to Freehold NJ and then to Livermore in 1979.

She was preceded in death by a daughter, Kathleen Marie Sotl and her husband of 55 years, Donald. She is survived by her children, Mary Wangerin of Oakley, Theresa Crews and Jennifer Gruczelak, both of Livermore, and David Sotl of Federal Way, WA. She is also survived by 12 grandchildren.

Beverly loved to travel and enjoyed spending time with her family. She was a very kind, loving and thoughtful individual who will be remembered. Her spirit lives on in the countless lives she has touched.

In accordance with her wishes, there will be no public service. However, the family will be holding an open house in her honor. For more information, regarding the date and time, contact any member of the family of Callaghan Mortuary, 447-2942.

The family does request that anyone wishing to make a donation in her memory to do so at: Kaiser Permanente Hos-pice, 200 Muir Road, Martinez, CA 94553.

Patricia Mederios

Patricia Carolyn Mederios died August 28, 2007 in Oakland. She was 61.

Pat was a native of Livermore and lifelong resident of Pleasanton. She was born to Frank and Velma Mederios on March 20, 1946. She graduated from Hayward Beauty College and worked as a cosmetologist from 1965 to 1970. Along with her sister, they owned The Country Place for 11 years (a gift and needlework shop) in Pleasanton. Most of the last 16 years, she was an insurance specialist with Kaufman and Broad, Larwin Co., and DaNova Homes. Pat loved the valley wine and arts festivals and attending Pleasanton Playhouse productions. She enjoyed day trips to Carmel, Monterey, Reno and eating out. Pat was a devoted parishioner of St. Augustine Catho-

The Depews became allergic to pesticides and air pollution as the result of a pesticide poisoning incident when they were living previously in Sacramento, where Depew was a technical writer of manuals for the state Department of Water Resources. Community pesticide use and the smog in Livermore hurt their health, making them almost disabled, so they searched the West for two years for a clean place to live. They finally found one in northern Arizona. However, spraying by a neighbor forced them to move again to a place near Patagonia in the southern Arizona high desert. They found a care-taking situation which gave them their own small home, from which they removed all plastic and other toxic materials.

Linda Depew continued her painting career with non-toxic materials, and sold her work through a gallery in New York. Wally Depew detoxified a computer, and did graphics arts jobs, which he shipped to clients online. He put some of his concrete poetry on-line. It is still accessible at http:// www.geocities.com/soho/2781/.

Depew, who was also a jazz trumpet player, called his web page "Bright Moments," after an album by Rahsaan Roland Kirk. Depew's favorite musician, Charles Mingus, was born in the city where Depew died.

Born in Scranton, PA., the son of a radio sports broadcaster, Depew was a Phi Beta Kappa student at Keystone College. He earned a degree in psychology at Drew University. He played trumpet in the First Army Band in New England. He worked on two of the early small press poetry magazines in the United States in the 1960s, as publisher of Poetry Newsletter in New York, and editor of Dust magazine in California.

Depew is survived by his wife of 33 years, Linda Depew of Patagonia, Ariz.; sister, Jean Attenborough of Westfield, N.J.; Suzanne and niece, Attenborough of Palo Alto. He is also survived by two terriers, Pigeon and Sparky; two cats, Lilly and Sam (named for Samuel Beckett); and Mabel Parrot.

Vicky and Terry Kelsey, Ron and Paula Giovanetti, Larry Giovanetti and Jodi and Brad Wellman, eleven grandchildren, 15 great grandchildren and extended family. He is also survived by a sister, Donna Love-Key. He was preceded in death by his parents Ida and Al and a brother Ronald. He will be missed by all.

Visitation is 4 to 6 p.m. on Thurs., Sept. 6 at Graham-Hitch Mortuary, 4167 First St., Pleasanton. Mass will be celebrated at 7 p.m. on Thurs., Sept. 6 at St. Elizabeth Seton Catholic Church, 4001 Stoneridge Dr., Pleasanton. Burial will be at the VA National Cemetery in Fernly,

In lieu of flowers, donations in Lenny's memory may be to: VA Palo Alto Health Care System, 3801 Miranda Ave., Palo Alto, CA 94304 for the "Livermore Nursing Home Care Unit."

Patricia Joyce Veilleux

Patricia Joyce Veilleux died September 1, 2007 in Livermore, at the age of 65 after a short battle with cancer.

Joyce was born in Oakland where she attended Holy Names High School. She attended Seattle University and moved back to the Bay Area after marriage, moving to Livermore in 1967. Joyce worked over 14 years for ValleyCare Medical Center and had retired in 2004.

Joyce will be remembered for her kindness, generosity and her great sense of humor. In recent years, Joyce enjoyed spending time with her children and grandchildren and taking family vacations.

Joyce will be deeply missed by sons Paul, Chris and Jeff and daughter-in-laws Maria, Kristine and Shannon. Joyce was a treasured grandmother to Mason, Haley, Ävery, Meghan, Jakob and Luke. She is survived by a brother, Robert, of Lake Oroville. She was preceded in death by her husband Robert.

Memorial contributions are suggested in lieu of flowers to your charity of choice.

Preschool Pioneer Reopens in Valley

Room To Grow, a school that was one of the pioneers of preschool education in the Valley, is reopening.

As before, the school will strive to be at the cutting edge, with an emphasis on parent participation.

"Only a couple of preschools remain in the Valley where parent participation is part of the program. We feel that parent participation is very, very important. We really value that," said Debbie Lignell.

"And by parent participation, we don't mean just helping in the classroom or cutting out shapes at home," she empha-sized. "Parents will have the opportunity for ongoing mentoring by two master teachers.

Karen Nattrass, whose children were enrolled in the school during those years, was one of the prime movers of the original Room To Grow some 25 years ago, participating as both a parent and teacher.

The new school, while sharing many of the values of the original, is not an actual continuation of the former Room To Grow, observed Lignell. She said it's essentially a fresh new school.

Center in Pleasanton. He was 68.

He and Jan, his wife of 40 years, have been long time residents of Pleasanton. C.L. was born in Hayward, CA on Oct. 16, 1938, the son of Helen and Corday Sr. He grew up there and was a 1956 graduate of Hayward High School. He worked at Hayward Plate Glass and Mirror Co. from that time until his retirement in 1997. Prior to his death, C.L. was presented with a gold watch and plaque honoring his 50 years as a member of the Glaziers and Glassworkers Union Local #169. He also served as an MP in the U.S. Army in the 1960's.

C.L. was a collector of toy trains, enjoyed playing golf, and was a loyal fan of the San Jose Sharks and the Oakland A's.

In addition to his wife, C.L. is survived by sisters, Barbara Ruibal of Colfax and Linda Jackson (Steve) of Chicago Park, and a brother David Johnson of Clermont, NY. He also leaves numerous in-laws, nieces, nephews, cousins and a long list of friends.

A Celebration of Life will be held at noon on Fri., Sept. 14 at the Pleasanton Hotel in downtown Pleasanton.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the American Heart Association or the American Cancer Society.

Beverly Jean Sotl

Beverly Jean Sotl passed away quietly in her Livermore home the morning of Aug. 26, 2007. She was 72.

Beverly was born Nov. 7, 1934 to Ruby and Walter Fleming in Edwardsville, IL. She married the love of her life, lic Church in Pleasanton.

She is survived by her sister, Beverly Mederios of Pleasanton, a aunt Genevieve Creighton of Fremont and numerous cousins and friends.

Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 11 a.m. on Thurs., Sept. 6 at St. Augustine Catholic Church, 3999 Bernal Ave., Pleasanton. Cryptside committal services will be at the St. Augustine Catholic Cemetery in Pleasanton following Mass. A reception follows the services.

The family has requested contributions in Patricia's memory to Sisters of the Holy Family, PO Box 3248, Fremont, CA 94539 or to St. Elizabeth High School, 1530 34th Ave., Oakland, CA 94601.

Arrangements by Callaghan Mortuary.

Wally Depew

Wally Depew, a former Livermore resident, died in a hospital in Nogales, Ariz., Aug. 18. He was 69

While living in Livermore in the early 1970s, Depew and his wife, Linda, managed Van's Health Food Store in Livermore. Both were active artists in Livermore. Depew was a nationally known concrete poet, working in an art that combines visual arts aspects of typography with more abstract experimental concepts of words. His videotaped half-hour combination of slides and sound track, which was suggestive of pop art and surrealism, was exhibited at the Toronto Arts Festival in the early '70s.

An avid New York Yankees fan, Depew wrote columns for the Independent about baseball, including reviews of board games and books.

Contributions in his memory may be made to UNICEF, his charity of choice for the past 10

Leonard Joseph Giovanetti passed away at his home on Sept. 1 2007. He was 83.

He was born and raised in Oakland. He moved to Castro Valley and joined the Army at age 18. He served in World War II in the Aleutian Islands. He married and then raised his family in Castro Valley. He worked for Signal Oil Co. then as a pipefitter and plumber retiring at age 65. Leonard enjoyed hunting, fishing and boating, as well as camping on the Russian River at his cousin Bruno Buti's home. Italian family get-togethers were always very special

He is survived by his wife Audrey, children and spouses

Burial is private. Arrangements by Callaghan Mortuary.

Authors to present program at Pleasanton Library.

Early California Through Eyes Of Women

Testimonios: Early California through the Eyes of Women, 1815-1848 is the topic of a program to be presented Sun., Sept. 9 at 2 p.m. at the Pleasanton Library.

Translators Rose Marie Beebe and Robert M. Senkewicz will be the guest speakers

When in the early 1870s historian Hubert Howe Bancroft sent interviewers out to gather oral histories from the pre-statehood gentry of California, he didn't count on one thing: the women. When the men weren't available, the interviewers collected the stories of the women of the household-almost as an afterthought. These were eventually archived at the University of California, although many were all but forgotten.

From the editors of the highly influential Lands of Promise and Despair, here are thirteen women's firsthand accounts from the time California was part of Spain and Mexico. Having lived through the gold rush and seen their country change so drastically, these women understood the need to tell the full story of the people and the places that were their California. Some of their words are translated here into English for the first time. Come hear about life as our foremothers experienced it in early California.

Picazo Wines Available for Tasting

Picazo Vineyards, owned and operated by Pam and Jose Picazo, is located on the Ruby Hill Bench in the Livermore Valley. The winery's first vintage was 2004. Wines are available for tasting by appointment.

Picazo produces an exceptionally deep, rich, highly individualistic Merlot from their estate vineyard in the southern Livermore Valley. While the wine is 100% Merlot, the overriding character and flavors focus more on site than variety.

Mark Clarin has been Picazo's winemaker since the first harvest. Mark, a native of Livermore, has been making wine for nearly 30 vears. Prior to Picazo, he worked for Wente and Randall Grahm at Bonny Doon. Knowing that this benchland property was one of Livermore's best sites, and sensing Pam and Jose's desire to make only great wine, Mark leapt at the opportunity to become Picazo's winemaker.

According to the Picazos, the winery is driven by quality and character. Individual blocks are harvested independently based on physiological ripeness (brown seeds, no shrivel). The fruit is hand picked in the cool morning air, hand sorted, and cold soaked for three to four days.'

Starting with the 2007 vintage, the wine is barrel fermented in headless, ultra-tight-grain, French oak barrels, 50-60% of which are new. While expensive, labor intensive and relatively rare for red wines, they believe that small barrel fermentations lead to more harmonious, complex and individualized wines. Hand punch downs and extended macerations extract maximum color and flavor. The wine spends 22 months in wood prior to bottling. Whenever possible the wines are bottled unfiltered.

In addition to his role as proprietor of Picazo Vineyards, Jose Picazo is Founder, President and CEO of Iconix, an e-mail fraud solution software company based in Mountain View, California. Jose has 12 patents in the technology and telecommunications arena. Prior to launching Picazo Pam managed process improvement at one of the world's largest automotive companies.

Starting with the 2007 vintage Picazo will also produce a Cabernet Sauvignon from a single vineyard in southeastern Napa Valley.

To schedule an appointment to taste Picazo wines, please call 454-0291.

Author Offers Look into the Lives of Iranian Women

Anita Amirrezvani, author of The Blood of Flowers, will be at the Livermore Library on Sunday, Sept. 16.

The Blood of Flowers offers a rare and insightful look inside the lives of Iranian women and transports readers to the vibrant, bustling markets of Isfahan, the cool stone rooms of the Shah's royal rug workshop, and the privacy of the hammam, the public bathhouse, which provides one of the few places women may truly reveal themselves, both in body and in mind. In her fiction debut, Anita Amirrezvani deftly weaves centuries-old folklore and craft traditions into an observation of gender roles and cultural mores that are as timely today as ever.
